STEPS TAKEN TO BRING JAP WAR LORDS TO TRIAL

First List Of Jap War Criminals Already Submitted To Allied Commission

VAST AMOUNT OF EVIDENCE WILL BE 'DISCOVERED'

By John A. Parris
LONDON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The United Nations war crimes commission discussed tonight that extensive steps are being taken to bring Japanese war criminals to justice.

Indications were that the number of Japanese who will have to answer for some of the most diabolical atrocities ever committed will far exceed those to be tried in Europe.

The first list of Japanese war criminals, all military officers, was submitted to the war crimes commission almost a year ago by the United States.

Since the spring of 1944 the War Crimes Commission has devoted particular attention to the question of punishment for Japanese war criminals when it took steps resulting in the establishment of a Far Eastern and Pacific sub-commission.

This sub-commission began its work last November in Chungking under the chairmanship of Dr. Wang, Chinese former Chinese judge of the United Court. Since then it has examined charges against Japanese war criminals presented by the Chinese government. At the same time, other cases against the Japanese war criminals have been presented to the main commission in London.

The Far Eastern and Pacific sub-commission also was appointed to study charges and make recommendations for punishment of these criminals. The commission said that this special committee was under the chairmanship of Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese ambassador to Great Britain. Koo has made some comprehensive recommendations which were adopted by the main commission and submitted to member governments for their consideration and action.

Actual detection and investigation are tasks which are carried out by the various member governments through their national offices. The commission explained in a memorandum dealing with Japanese war criminals that it has been reported recently that "China, India, the United States and Australia are already investigating war crimes in Japan. The work of these teams is an example of the activities of the national offices."

The commission said the number of cases on their lists could not be reduced now, because their publication would make the apprehension of war criminals all the more difficult.

"It remains to be foreseen," the commission memorandum said, "with the liberation of territories occupied by the Japanese, it is certain that a vast amount of evidence will be made available which will be discovered."

BAN DROPPED ON LIVESTOCK KILLING

OPA Action Permits Slaughterers To Kill As Many Animals As They Like

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—All limits on the slaughter of livestock ended with a sharp upturn in animals going to market.

This action by the OPA permits slaughterers to kill as much livestock as they like.

It means more meat for civilians and while no fully authoritative official makes such a prediction for quotation, it may be a step preliminary to an early end to rationing. That depends largely on how much the kill increases.

"Now that the period of acute scarcity has passed and with increased numbers of livestock being fed, we want to be sure there are no obstacles to prevent the slaughter of every animal that is marketed," Eugene Administration Chester Bowles said in a statement announcing the action.

The slaughter control program, in effect since last April, was designed to route more of the limited livestock supply into federally-inspected plants, less to non-inspected plants.

The idea behind it was to make more meat available for the armed forces and government requirements. Most produced in non-federally-inspected plants could not be shipped across state lines.

Congress later permitted some modification of the ruling, so that meat could be diverted to civilian hardship areas.

PLANE CRASH IN SOUTH CAROLINA KILLS 22—Deep in a dense swamp lies the wreckage of an Eastern Air Lines transport plane which crashed near Florence, S. C., September 7, killing all of its 22 occupants. There were 19 passengers and three members of the crew. Searchers were unable to penetrate the watery cypress bog and reach the wreckage until nearly 10 hours after the plane disappeared on a regular flight from Miami to New York. All bodies were burned beyond recognition. (AP Wirephoto).

TENSION MOUNTS IN BALKAN ISSUE

Preparations Being Completed For Foreign Ministers' Parley Tuesday

LONDON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Tension over the expected difficulties in reaching a Big Five agreement on the Balkan problems mounted tonight as preparations were being completed for the foreign ministers' conference, opening here Tuesday.

Russian Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov was expected to arrive tonight and it was considered likely he would hold informal talks with British Foreign Secretary Bevin as a prelude to the formal meeting.

The French foreign minister, Georges Bidault, and the Chinese foreign minister, Dr. Wang Shu-cheng, were scheduled to arrive tomorrow.

Secretary of State James F. Byrnes will be the last of the Big Five ministers to reach the conference, as he is due on the Queen Elizabeth on Monday. Because Byrnes was unable to get here some of the conference, which was scheduled to open Monday, will start Tuesday at 2:30 p.m.

Highly reliable sources said tonight that Britain would back the American proposal to internationalize European inland waterways and would insist on "free movement" anywhere on the continent.

The American proposal, it was understood, would call for establishing an international commission to govern the Rhine, Danube, Germany's Kiel canal, the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles Straits.

It was reported unofficially that the American representative in Sofia, Raymond Barnes, was due to reach London tonight or tomorrow. This was considered significant in view of the increasing problem the Balkans are presenting to the Allies.

Bulgaria, however, is host of a trouble spot. Romanians of present. The uneasy situation was heightened by the Russian government newspaper Izvestia's article today charging that American and British pressure was used to force King Mihai to request a three-power consultation for the establishment of a new Romanian government.

With Russia has refused Secretary Byrnes' request to hold a Big Three discussion on the Romanian situation, it is understood that this question will be high on the list of the foreign ministers' agenda.

British and American diplomats appear determined to push the issue through to a conclusion. The Romanian situation has a large aspect of mystery here at the moment.

The tone of the Izvestia article led some to speculate that a conciliatory attitude towards the western Allies' request to broaden the Romanian government was unlikely.

The British, with American support, are determined to refuse to discuss the eastern European treaties until Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary establish governments which the western Allies can recognize.

GEN. CHENNAULT REACHES MONROE

Leader Of Famed 'Flying Tigers' Arrives At Soliman Saturday

Major Gen. Claire L. Chennault, who will be guest of honor at a big parade here Tuesday, landed at Soliman Field here last yesterday afternoon accompanied by James A. Noy, former state senator and governor of Louisiana. The famed air chief was delayed two hours in New Orleans and did not arrive here until shortly after 5 p.m.

Arriving here in the same C-47 plane which brought him back to the United States from China, General Chennault was greeted at Soliman Field by A. J. L. Stommie and his friend still. An honor guard composed of a flight of aviation cadets and the 44th AAF Base Squadron, the former air chief in China when he landed.

As General Chennault stepped from the plane, the same plane which he used in China, he extended his hand to Colonel Stommie and smiled. Hello, Joe, it's certainly good to see you again. Both Colonel Stommie and General Chennault have been good friends since they were stationed together at Kelly Field, Tex. during World War I.

The same crew that was with General Chennault in China, flew here from New Orleans with him.

Included in the official party, the general's plane was his little daughter, named "Joe". The dog was with General Chennault in China and the former Flying Tiger exclaimed yesterday that Joe has over 200 flying hours to his credit.

El Seimmar, chairman of Ouachita parish's General Chennault Day, and Mrs. James A. Noy, Linda Noy, and Mrs. Gordon McLendon, daughter of General Chennault, were with him.

General Chennault's official party included a number of local dignitaries, including Mayor J. B. Payne, who is expected to arrive here today.

American Flag Is Raised In Capital

Jap Radio Says U. S. Rule Over Homeland Will Reach Up To Limits Of Hokkaido By October 4th

By Murlin Spencer
TOKYO, Sunday, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Helmeted U. S. troops with bayonets ready spread their control over more of subdued Tokyo today (Saturday, U. S. time). Behind them additional men, tanks and guns streamed into Japan.

The American flag flew proudly over this devastated capital of a fallen empire, placed there yesterday at the command of General MacArthur at a brief and simple ceremony in the U. S. embassy grounds.

Other soldiers were swarming ashore in Korea, under Japanese thrall since 1910. The Tokyo radio said American rule over the homeland would reach up to Japan's northernmost limits of Hokkaido by October 4.

The Japanese were scheduled to yield Ominato naval base, 490 miles north of Tokyo, to the U. S. north Pacific fleet at 10 a. m. (8 p. m., Saturday, Central War Time) extending the occupation of Honshu Island beyond the capital for the first time.

Sixty warships crowded into Ominato's anchorage, marines in reconnaissance boats prowled the coast line, and naval crews prepared to immobilize all Japanese shipping in those waters.

A similar drama was being enacted at Katsura naval and submarine base on Honshu's eastern coast southeast of Tokyo, which will pass completely under U. S. army and navy control before nightfall.

Tokyo radio announced a schedule of occupation which would place American forces in control of many strategic points of the fallen empire by early October.

By this account, the naval base of Sasebo, on the western coast of the southern island of Kyushu, will be taken over September 22, presumably by the U. S. Fifth fleet assigned to Kyushu's waters.

Wakayama, steel city of 195,000 population 30 miles southwest of Osaka—the great industrial complex lying 250 miles southwest of Tokyo—will change hands September 25, Tokyo said.

Tokyo reported Yokkaichi, oil refining center 60 miles northeast of Osaka, will be occupied October 2, the north Honshu port of Aomori October 3, and the northernmost island of Hokkaido October 4.

The Japanese also said two officers of the U. S. Sixth army had left Tokyo yesterday for Kyoto to arrange for its occupation. Kyoto, ancient capital of Japan, is 20 miles north of Osaka.

Meanwhile, as army authorities checked war prisoners' atrocity stories, Japanese intellectuals called on the Americans to announce at once a list of war criminals to which the Japanese people themselves might want to add some names.

The intellectuals told Associated Press Correspondent Russell Brines that Hideki Tojo, premier at the time of Pearl Harbor, two members of the present cabinet and both signers of the surrender document, should be placed on the list.

To all this, the Japanese people appeared surprisingly indifferent, just as they were when the jeeps and armored vehicles came roaring into their ruined capital for yesterday's historic flag raising.

That flag, which flew over Washington's historic Capitol on the day of Pearl Harbor, hung limply today in Tokyo's humid air after First division cavalrymen placed it there at the climax of one of history's strangest occupations of a foreign power's capital.

Without fanfare or excitement, the second squadron of the First division's proud Seventh regiment and the 302nd reconnaissance troop swept through Tokyo's streets and threw a guard around the American embassy.

General MacArthur, shunning all fanfare as a conqueror, entered Tokyo today with fully armed troops of the First cavalry division and officially signaled the occupation of this war-wrecked city with a 10-minute flag raising ceremony.

The supreme commander of the Allied powers was stern of visage and firm of voice at the U. S. embassy grounds—within five minutes drive of Emperor Hirohito's palace—as he ordered:

"Have our country's flag unfurled and in Tokyo's sun let it wave in its full glory as a symbol of hope for oppressed and as a harbinger of victory for the right."

The general and his men, covering the last mile of the long hard road from Australia, came as the first foreign victors ever to enter this heart of surrendered Japan. In their hour of triumph, they were all business.

There was no parade of pomp. The word had been out that the men would march from the diet building to the embassy.

Instead, they moved in so unostentatiously with their trucks, jeeps and weapons-carriers that the sight of the flag—the one which flew over the Capitol in Washington Dec. 7, 1941, then in triumph over Rome and Berlin—was the first notice to many Tokyo residents that the Americans had come.

Major Gen. William C. Chase's proud First cavalry division had a huge sign ready, lettered "First Cavalry Division—First In Tokyo," as they waited at Chofu, on the southwest outskirts.

But they had to leave it hanging on a tree at the roadside. Even guidons were removed from the armored vehicles in compliance with MacArthur's direction for a simple entrance. An attempt of a group of Texans to fly the Lone Star State flag brought a sharp reprimand from General Chase.

"Get that down—no flags," he said.

Tanks had rolled up to the outskirts. They halted there, MacArthur chose not to bring them in unless needed, to avoid further damaging Tokyo's streets.

TEN BELIEVED KILLED IN SUPERFORT CRASH

WEDOWEE, Ala., Sept. 8.—(AP)—An army four-engine bomber, identified by Sheriff G. B. Payne as a B-29 from the Gulfport, Miss., army air base, crashed and burned with the loss of 10 or 11 lives seven miles south of here last night.
The sheriff said the giant aircraft exploded when it struck the ground, and the blast could be heard for 15 miles.
Bodies were being taken to Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala., this afternoon, Sheriff Payne said residents of the land area south of Wedowee noticed that the plane was flying low and apparently seeking a landing place, but did not see any fire before it struck.
The weather was "perfect for flying" at the time of the crash, Sheriff Payne said. He fixed the time of the accident at 7:30 p. m., CWT.

Nip Religious Political Leader May Be Tried As War Criminal

By John M. Hightower
WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Emperor Hirohito of Japan may find himself out of a job soon.
And once the bespectacled little man has ceased to be the royal figurehead of Japan's religious-political system, he may be tried as a war criminal.
At the moment, as far as official Washington will say, these are good possibilities. Some foreign diplomatic persons say they are certainties. Evidently the final decision is up to General Douglas MacArthur.
The changes will be designed to rip out the war-making powers of the Japanese and begin the long process of rendering them peaceful and more or less Democratic. Top developments are tentatively expected to include:
1. Withdrawal of Hirohito from the throne—either by voluntary abdication or by order of the Allied powers. He will be replaced by a regency for the schoolboy Prince Akihito. The regent probably will be an elderly member of the Royal family.
2. Breakup of the "Zaibatsu"—the clique of eight great families which have run Japanese industry and commerce for generations.
3. Revision of the Japanese constitution to take power from the emperor and place it in the hands of the people.
These three are long-range measures beyond the immediate problems of disarming the enemy, depriving him of his armaments, limiting his heavy industries strictly to peace needs, digging out war criminals and destroying the military clique.
Grounds for speculation that the emperor may be tried as a war criminal are found here in the fact that powerful Chinese factions have demanded such a trial. American leaders see no objection to it and could find the technical basis for it in the fact that the emperor signed official documents starting the war.
Under the surrender terms the Japanese people got assurances that they would make the final decision on whether they wanted to keep any emperor. There were no guarantees for Hirohito the man.
For the rest of the "unconditional surrender" terms reserved to the Allies the right to take any measures they deem necessary to direct Japan into peaceful ways. In this connection the problem of the eight families which control Japan's economy has been widely explored.
No official conclusion has been announced but it is felt here that they are a hindrance to creating a Democratic Japan. One of the first steps probably will be to deprive them of their banking activities and move from that to strip away other services and properties they control.

Corregidor Hero Receives Warm Welcome From San Francisco Delegation

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright came home today and voiced his grim satisfaction at having watched the Japanese bow their once-arrogant heads in surrender.
But the hero of Corregidor, rendered almost speechless by his enthusiastic welcome at Hamilton Field, was mute about the treatment he received from the enemy during his 42 months' imprisonment.
He told how his valiant troops of Bataan and Corregidor were subjected to the most intense artillery bombardment in history.
"With my men battered and overwhelmed, further resistance was useless," the general told a press conference. "So I surrendered to M. Homa, the Japanese general."
"A few days ago it was my turn. The shoe was on the other foot. I was present at Baguio in the Philippines when General Yamashita was obliged to bow his head in surrender."
Hundreds of military personnel and scores of civilians greeted the big C-54 transport plane which brought General Wainwright from Honolulu, en route to report to General Marshall at Washington.
"This morning at 11:10 I dropped out of a heavy cloudy bank just above San Francisco," General Wainwright said.
"For many weary months I had thought of that moment—when I would see the Golden Gate again."
The big plane came down through the clouds into brilliant sunshine and settled gently on the Hamilton Field runway.
The hatch was opened and the general's grey-haired head popped out. He took three steps down the ladder and suddenly came to a stiff military salute.
The western defense command band broke into the stirring strains of "Semper Paratus" or "Always Faithful."
The general held his salute for nearly a full minute while on the big runway hundreds of officers, soldiers, WACs and WAVES returned it.
Then, followed by his chief of staff, Brig. Gen. L. C. Beebe, General Wainwright stepped into the hangar.

30-HOUR WORK WEEK ASSAILED

Senator Byrd Says It Would Force Private Industry To Do The Same

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The proposed 30-hour federal work week came under fire today from Senator Byrd, Democrat, Virginia, who declared it would mean "all private industry will be forced to do the same."
"The first step in the downfall of France was the 30-hour week," Byrd said in a statement. "America cannot become a nation of drones and maintain our future economic stability."
The 30-hour week was proposed in a bill by Senator McCarran, Democrat, Nevada. It was referred to the civil service committee of which Byrd is a member.
McCarran wrote Chairman Downey, Democrat, California, of the committee asking early hearing.
Downey told reporters the committee will meet Tuesday on other business but will be glad to hear a preliminary statement from McCarran.
Chairman Arthur S. Fleming of the civil service commission will be present and probably will be questioned as to what would be the effect of a 30-hour week, Downey added.
Asked if he agreed with Byrd that the government went on a 30-hour week, Downey replied:
"It would seem that very serious consequences would flow from it and that it would require careful study."
Senator Aiken, Republican, Vermont, another committee member, told reporters he thought there is no doubt industry will have to shorten hours if the government did.
"But I think a shorter work week is inevitable and not far away," Aiken added. "Whether 30 hours is the right number, I don't know. I don't believe we can maintain full employment without a shorter week."

DEATH OF BELGIAN PRINCESS REPORTED

LONDON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The Brussels radio reported tonight the death of former Crown Princess Stephanie, of Austria-Hungary—a Belgian princess whose Hapsburg crown prince husband died in circumstances that shocked the royalty of all Europe in 1889.
The broadcast said the 81-year-old daughter of King Leopold I, died in Hungary a few days ago. Her death means that the true circumstances surrounding the death of her husband, the young and dashing Crown Prince Rudolph, and his beautiful mistress, the Baroness Marie Vetsera, may never be known.
In 1883 the former crown princess published her memoirs in which she said that her husband and the baroness, whose bullet-pierced bodies were found in the royal hunting lodge at Mayerling, died as the result of a suicide pact.
She charged that her husband, heir to the throne of Emperor Franz Joseph, had associated with many women, plotted political moves and had threatened suicide.
"He didn't want to die alone," she wrote, "and Vetsera loved him so blindly she went with him."

30-HOUR WORK WEEK ASSAILED

Senator Byrd Says It Would Force Private Industry To Do The Same

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The proposed 30-hour federal work week came under fire today from Senator Byrd, Democrat, Virginia, who declared it would mean "all private industry will be forced to do the same."
"The first step in the downfall of France was the 30-hour week," Byrd said in a statement. "America cannot become a nation of drones and maintain our future economic stability."
The 30-hour week was proposed in a bill by Senator McCarran, Democrat, Nevada. It was referred to the civil service committee of which Byrd is a member.
McCarran wrote Chairman Downey, Democrat, California, of the committee asking early hearing.
Downey told reporters the committee will meet Tuesday on other business but will be glad to hear a preliminary statement from McCarran.
Chairman Arthur S. Fleming of the civil service commission will be present and probably will be questioned as to what would be the effect of a 30-hour week, Downey added.

Without fanfare or excitement, the second squadron of the First division's proud Seventh regiment and the 302nd reconnaissance troop swept through Tokyo's streets and threw a guard around the American embassy.
General MacArthur, shunning all fanfare as a conqueror, entered Tokyo today with fully armed troops of the First cavalry division and officially signaled the occupation of this war-wrecked city with a 10-minute flag raising ceremony.
The supreme commander of the Allied powers was stern of visage and firm of voice at the U. S. embassy grounds—within five minutes drive of Emperor Hirohito's palace—as he ordered:
"Have our country's flag unfurled and in Tokyo's sun let it wave in its full glory as a symbol of hope for oppressed and as a harbinger of victory for the right."
The general and his men, covering the last mile of the long hard road from Australia, came as the first foreign victors ever to enter this heart of surrendered Japan. In their hour of triumph, they were all business.
There was no parade of pomp. The word had been out that the men would march from the diet building to the embassy.
Instead, they moved in so unostentatiously with their trucks, jeeps and weapons-carriers that the sight of the flag—the one which flew over the Capitol in Washington Dec. 7, 1941, then in triumph over Rome and Berlin—was the first notice to many Tokyo residents that the Americans had come.
Maj. Gen. William C. Chase's proud First cavalry division had a huge sign ready, lettered "First Cavalry Division—First In Tokyo," as they waited at Chofu, on the southwest outskirts.
But they had to leave it hanging on a tree at the roadside. Even guidons were removed from the armored vehicles in compliance with MacArthur's direction for a simple entrance. An attempt of a group of Texans to fly the Lone Star State flag brought a sharp reprimand from General Chase.
"Get that down—no flags," he said.
Tanks had rolled up to the outskirts. They halted there. MacArthur chose not to bring them in unless needed, to avoid further damaging Tokyo's streets.

BAN DROPPED ON LIVESTOCK KILLING

OPA Action Permits Slaughterers To Kill As Many Animals As They Like

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—All limits on the slaughter of livestock ended with a sharp upturn in animals going to market.
This action by the OPA permits slaughterers to kill as much livestock as they like.
It means more meat for civilians and while no fully authoritative official makes such a prediction for quotation, it may be a step preliminary to an early end to rationing. That depends largely on how much the kill increases.
"Now that the period of acute scarcity has passed and with increased numbers of livestock being killed, we want to be sure there are no obstacles to prevent the slaughter of every animal that is marketed," Price Administrator Chester Bowles said in a statement announcing the action.
The slaughter control program, in effect since last April, was designed to route more of the limited livestock supply into federally-inspected plants, less to non-inspected plants.
The idea behind it was to make more meat available for the armed forces and government requirements. Meat produced in non-federally-inspected plants could not be shipped across state lines.
Congress later permitted some modification of the ruling, so that meat could be diverted to civilian hardship areas.
Bowles said the slaughter controls, coupled with a "fair distribution plan," worked well.

Your Health

By Lt. Col. W. S. Keller, M. D.
(Parish Health Director)

Sex character education is sometimes Public Health Education. Don't you believe that, Dad? What about you, Dad, have you forgotten that son of yours?

Why not be honest with him and with yourself. You remember some of the things that happened to you when you were from 12 to 18 years of age. You know those growing pains when your voice was changing, when you stumbled over everything in the house. When the hair began to grow on your chest. You know the time when you had your first long hair and longed for a "tux," and you were hearing things, yes, plenty of things from the older boys in the neighborhood.

Don't you remember, Dad, of getting all the "vulgar" and "smutty" names for things? That time when you should have had a decent vocabulary taught to you, by your own father.

Yes, Dad, that was the time when all kinds of things were taking place with the physical body and you had no one to go to to ask about those things, except the older boys, maybe up some alley or in the hay loft.

Sure, Dad, that is what I mean and when you told me four or five years later, you lied to me about things and told me that people with certain practices went to the Insane Hospitals.

Say, old timer, nuts to you, come clean, don't hand me that malarkey! Honestly, Dad, why do you put all that on Mom? After all, she is not a man. I can take it, if you can.

Yes, this is the age of puberty. The age depends upon the individual child, their precociousness and physical size.

The transition from childhood to full physiologic and psychosocial maturity is a particularly trying period for the child, the parent, and the physician. The period of rapid growth, the heightened and modified activities of the glands of internal secretion, resulting in the development of secondary sex characteristics, and the accompanying "psychologic" adjustments to the altered status present to the adolescent a bewildering array of new and powerful forces. The parents are so far removed in age from their own adolescence and are often so strongly influenced by a set pattern of psychic and physical behavior to which they expect their child to conform, that they frequently serve only to intensify the difficulty.

The uneven growth and development of the adolescent period may cause physiologic instability and lack of coordination. The rapidly changing size disorganizes former motor habits and performances, necessitating the development of a new eye-hand coordination and use of the body. This period of readjustment is indeed aptly termed "the awkward age."

In addition to these trying adjustments, anxiety about their physical appearance and functions, and their normalcy, is often a problem in adolescent boys and girls, causing various maladjustments to their environment and associates. Further emotional disturbances are caused by revival of childhood conflicts and rivalries, and emotional disturbances of early childhood. Anxiety about sex differences and other sex problems also occurs, and the adolescent is always confronted with many sudden breaks in the former continuity of his life, when he is expected to forget some of the earlier precepts and to accept new ideas in preparation for adult life. In contrast with his former submission and obedience to his parents and dependence on them for decisions, the adolescent is suddenly expected to assume the responsibility for his conduct and show independence and good judgment in making decisions.

On the other hand, emotional factors are also introduced if parents mistakenly oppose the efforts of the adolescent to grow up. Lack of accurate and sensible sex education is another stumbling block. At a time when it is important for the normal questions of the adolescent to be wisely and understandingly answered, the majority of parents and educators continue to treat adolescents as children and either terrorize them, shame them, or give them harmful misleading information.

Much of the service and advice which parents, educators, and physicians attempt to give is met with resistance on the part of the adolescent, partly because of resentment against attempts to regulate his life by outsiders, after he has been struggling to escape his family's influence, and partly because of suspicion of appeals to his enthusiasm which are too similar to appeals made during childhood. Any needed changes in living, eating, and personal hygiene may sometimes be successfully brought about through group programs, rather than through individual advice.

Delinquency is being more and more regarded as being caused by "sense of frustration, defeat, and personality difficulties which often arise from the confused and conflicting neighborhood and family life of adolescents and pre-adolescents."

In one of the communities in which your Health Director recently lived up north there lived a well known Divine. He was a saintly man, but very other-worldly. When his son became twenty-one years of age, the father went to one of the local physicians and asked him to speak to his son about the facts of life and things relative to his sex. He said "personally I am hesitant to do so."

Those of us who knew his son better than he did knew that his son had a Venereal Disease at the age of 15.

Yes, Dad, these are facts. Sex or character education may be Public Health Education. Where do you stand, Dad, with your son?

Don't wait too long.

COLLEGE STUDY AID FOR ADULTS

Refresher And New Courses
Scheduled At N. J. C.
Here

Many adults thought, until recently, that it was useless for grown persons who had been out of school for a number of years to return to the classroom. However, in 1933, 1934, and 1935, when jobs were scarce, thousands of older persons went to college for more education or to take refresher courses. The subjects which they studied not only helped them get needed work at that time, but also proved helpful when the war came a few years later. Now thousands of adults are holding worthwhile positions, not just because of scarcity of labor, but partly because good common sense was used when they went to evening school in 1935.

Northeast Junior College of Louisiana State University, like all good educational institutions, was in a position to offer courses to help adults during the depression as well as during the war. Now that the fighting is over, N. J. C. is ready to accept another challenge—that of helping adults with new educational problems.

Thousands of persons who held jobs during the war now find that greater demands will be required of them. Salesmen, stenographers, bookkeepers, typists, teachers, home makers, and farmers must have a thorough knowledge of their vocations, otherwise the jobs may go to the persons who studied while they worked. The stenographer and typist will not only be required to type and take shorthand, but must know how to spell, punctuate, and keep a more comprehensive set of office records.

Northeast Junior College evening school will register students for night classes 7-9 p. m. Monday and Tuesday, September 17-18. A wide range of courses will be offered. Adults now employed are invited to make requests for any courses that will meet their needs. An effort will be made to supply any class of eight persons with a qualified instructor.

The following courses have been requested by evening school students: accounting, shorthand, typewriting, business machines, filing, salesmanship, English, Spanish, speech, journalism, chemistry, mechanical drawing, physics, algebra, trigonometry, radio, aviation ground school, psychology, geography, history, economics, and many others. Students interested in courses not listed should telephone the evening school director at Northeast Junior College to make their wishes known.

A tuition fee will be charged all evening school students. The fee is $5 per credit hour. For example, English is a three semester hour course. The class will meet twice each week for 18 weeks. The course fee for 18 weeks is $5. Seventy-two clock hours of instruction for this nominal sum fee is charged for the entire course. Call 4200 for further information on evening school offerings.

Mackenzie's Column

By DeWitt Mackenzie

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)
A long, long line of Japanese warlords and other criminals must be made to walk the plank if we are to get lasting peace, and the sooner we square our jaws for the task, the better.

The amazing disclosure of how the militarists plotted and fought to prevent the mikado from surrendering, even after the atomic bomb had demonstrated its annihilating power, shows the grip of militarism in Japan. The barbarities which are being uncovered in the Japanese prison camps are in themselves enough to condemn the nation.

The whole nasty situation is well summed up in a statement by the Sultan of Johore, whose state lies just across the narrow strait from Singapore. He says the Japanese commander of that great naval base, Lt. Gen. Itagaki, declared a few days ago that he expected to return to Singapore about 20 years hence.

That's what the Allies are up against—the determination of the Jap militarists to try again to conquer Asia. However, as this column pointed out a couple of days ago, if the Allies kill that determination right where it stands, they won't have to fight another war a generation from now. I raise the subject again, not because we need fear that Supreme Commander MacArthur will be too lenient, but because it is well for the Allied public to be prepared to do a stern job in Japan.

The melodrama of the militarist plots to hamstring the mikado might have been written by Gilbert and Sullivan—except that it lacks the humor. It's grotesque but wholly grim, even involving the almost unbelievable scene of numerous kamikaze (suicide) pilots diving to their deaths in Tokyo bay as a protest after the surrender had been announced.

Russell Brines, an Associated Press correspondent in Tokyo, reports from a well-informed Japanese source that fanatical young Japanese officers on August 14 even assassinated the commanding general of the emperor's personal guards in their attempt to prevent the imperial announcement of surrender from reaching the public. Having killed the general, they forged his name to an order and sent troops to surround the palace, but the scheme failed.

That was the finale of the battle waged by the mikado and his peace-seeking advisers with the militarists.

who were determined not to capitulate. It was a conflict which had been going on since last February.

The fact that a strong element, including the emperor, stood for peace is encouraging to the Allies. We have our warning, however, in the strength of the militarists.

Then there's another lesson which we shouldn't overlook, and that is the tremendous power wielded by the spiritual-temporal ruler of the empire. We already knew that his hold on his people was great, for they regard him literally as a living god. But never before has the world had such a demonstration of his influence as is shown in the sensational circumstances surrounding the battle in Tokyo over the surrender.

Many observers previously had concluded that the Allies would need the mikado's influence in their rehabilitation program. The disclosure of the emperor's stand for surrender is likely to strengthen that view.

FIRST COTTON IS GINNED LAST WEEK

BERNICE, La., Sept. 8.—(Special)—The Lindsey Gin Company received the first cotton of the season in this section when A. C. Andrews, Bernice R. F. D. 3, brought in two bales. When ginned, the first bale weighed 532 pounds, the second, 546 pounds; grade middling. It was bought by Mr. Lindsey for 22 cents a pound. The ginning of the first bale was exactly one week later than the first one ginned a year ago.

The prospect for the crop this year near here is poor. There is shortage of labor, lower acreage and boll weevil damage. Cotton pickers are hard to get and the pay is high.

TRUMAN MAY NOT RECEIVE POWERS

Little Chance Seen For Measure Covering General Reorganization

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Indications accumulated at the Capitol today that President Truman will not get anywhere near the freedom he wants to reorganize the government.

Members of the House expenditures committee said there was no chance there for a measure exempting only the general accounting office from reorganization, as desired by the president.

They did say there probably would be fewer agencies exempted than the 21 named in a bill by Representative Manasco, Democrat, Alabama.

On the Senate side, a judiciary subcommittee already has adopted tentatively an amendment prohibiting creation of any new department of national defense.

This amendment is by Chairman McCarran, Democrat, Nevada. He favors a department of national defense combining war and navy departments and the coast guard.

He frankly says it might be easier to get it through a presidential reorganization plan than through congressional action.

In general, the reorganization bills in both houses propose that the president draw plans which would improve government efficiency. He would submit each plan to Congress and it would become effective in 60 days if Congress did not say "no" in a resolution.

It is the reverse of the usual procedure where Congress sends legislation to the White House and the president can veto it.

The theory back of the reverse is that it is more likely to get results. Congress finds itself under a lot of pressure when it undertakes to change government agencies around.

McCarran told reporters he thought the basic purpose of reorganization should be to reduce expenses and give back to the states some of the rights and functions originally contemplated as belonging to the states.

The new agency most talked about has been a department of welfare embracing social security, the office of education, and other agencies.

McCarran said he had no objection "if it will eliminate overlapping."

"But if that is done, let Congress do it," he added. "Congress set up social security and those other agencies. Let Congress set up the new department if it wants one."

Dixon's Column

By Duane Hennessy
(Substituting for Kenneth L. Dixon)
WITH U. S. MARINES, JAPAN—(AP)—

Most of all, marines want to see "Tokyo Rose"—the radio announcer who tried to tear their hearts out and only cheered them with swell jive music.

"She was another Jap failure," says Lt. Elmer Imus of Kingman, Ariz., holder of four Purple Hearts and father of an 18-month-old child he has never seen.

"When we were at Bougainville, she'd harp on the cool ice cream at home and 4-F's going out with our girls and wives."

"That stuff didn't register with us but we always looked forward to her program because she had hot records. I'd like to meet Rosie. She was the best morale builder we had."

Pfc. Francis W. Goelee of Austin, Minn., an apprentice embalmer in civilian life, wants to see how the Japanese prepare their dead.

Pfc. Edward F. McCall of Portland, Ore., remarked: "I am interested in lumbering and I'd like to see how the Japs run that industry. I've much about it in Okinawa."

Living conditions among the Japanese, as well as their architecture, intrigues Pfc. Lavern E. Morse of Waterloo, Iowa.

Many marines, remembering their schoolboy geography lessons, want to climb Mt. Fuji, Japan's famed mountain. Pfc. Earl L. Brown of Clarksville, West Va., puts Fuji at the top of his list. He also wants to take in former Premier Tojo's Tokyo home "just to see how the guy lived."

James Buskirk of Justice, West Va., navy pharmacist mate attached to the marines, includes Fuji, the emperor's palace and some Shinto shrines in his tourist itinerary.

Simply "to find out how the Japs act and what makes them tick," is the ambition of Don Farr of Esagar, Ariz., another pharmacist mate. "I've never had time to study the little men before," he says, "but maybe now I'll get the opportunity."

The Japanese trucking industry interests Pfc. Earl R. Gelwick of Denver, Colo., who was a commercial driver in civilian life. "And I'd like to study the Jap dishes and vases, which I've heard a lot about," he added.

Pvt. Edward M. Costello of West Hempstead, Long Island, N. Y., was eager "to see the damage done by the B-29s because they helped to get us here."

Pvt. Gaylord A. Chrichton of Los Angeles, Calif., promised his wife he would walk down the streets of Tokyo and he wants her to know he is keeping the pledge.

Just seeing the Imperial Palace from the outside won't satisfy Pfc. Arthur W. Gratiot of Portland, Ore. "We should order Hirohito to open the palace," he declared, "so we can go through it. I also want to visit Hiroshima. That would be a thrill."

Pfc. Ben Willis of Phenix City, Ala., also would like to go through the palace.

But the most ambitious marine of all was Pfc. Henry E. Simmons of Coolidge, Ariz., who wants to ride Hirohito's white horse, either before or after Admiral Halsey. "But," he admits, "I might compromise for just a look at the nag."

NAZIS 'SNITCH' ON EACH OTHER

Defendants Point Accusing Fingers At Ex-Colleagues In Crime

NUERNBERG, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Nazi ring leaders are "snitching" on each other while being questioned for their war crime trials, a member of the United States interrogation staff said today.

This source did not disclose who was telling what on whom but said there were several cases where the defendants were pointing fingers accusingly at ex-colleagues in apparent efforts to gain consideration for themselves.

Col. John H. Amen's staff of interrogators, now increased to 65, is busy "all day, every day," it was reported, questioning the growing population of the Nuernberg prison and witnesses.

The prisoners are bearing up well physically except for former Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop who is showing a "recurring neuralgic condition," jailers said. Some are showing mental strain and depression, however, and psychiatrists have been rushed here from Paris to take their places on duty in the cell blocks along with doctors and dentists.

The latest arrivals were a group of Nazis caught in Italy, including SS Gen. Kurt Wolff.

Two disturbances by principal war criminal defendants were reported by a security officer last night.

One of the leading defendants, identified by the officer only as "that so-and-so who's crazy or pretending to be crazy," attacked his guard, but the guard was uninjured.

The other disorder was caused by a woman prisoner, also unidentified, who the officer said displayed "a fractious show of temperment." He did not elaborate on her offense.

Some of the women held here are former mistresses of the top-ranking defendants.

Boyle's Notebook

By Hal Boyle
TOKYO.—(AP)—The Japanese young generation already has adopted the American army.

Like the children of Europe and Africa, the Japanese "small fry" have fallen head over heels in love with big-hearted and big-pocketed Yank soldiers, marines and sailors. Growns-ups may sneer openly or cast veiled looks of hatred at occupation troops from behind their mask of polite formality, but the kids themselves are seriously welcoming the invaders.

They line the streets whenever a military convoy passes, and stand for hours grinning and saluting. Whenever an American soldier jokingly throws them a return salute, they jump up and down, hysterically happy.

Most of the children are clad in rags, and some are so short of clothing that loin cloths make up their entire wardrobe.

Boys and girls begin the pack-mule life early in Japan, where child labor is the rule rather than the exception. But these children show few external signs of having lived on a starvation diet. They appear healthy and lively, with clear, tanned yellow skins.

They wear happy grins and their faces are lively and expressive. Life hasn't yet molded them to the bleak impassivity of their elders.

When the family has a windfall and they get a big meal, they whoop and enjoy it.

They are quite willing to forget the past and go overboard for the "new order" the Allies are bringing. Many of them wave their fingers in the famous V sign. They picked that up from watching the troops. One group of youngsters, about seven to eight years old, modestly wave American and British flags at a passing column.

They are picking up the English language quickly, and in less than a week every Japanese child from Yokosuka to Tokyo has learned at least three words: "Hello," and "thank you."

Each day they get more friendly, as one soldier put it—"they learn that Americans won't eat them or kick their teeth in."

The morning we landed in Japan you could hardly see a child on the street. They would peer out of windows or peer down from balconies, then giggle and, half-frightened by their own bravery, run back into the house.

Now they flood out from everywhere, play all over the streets, and you have to drive carefully to keep from wiping out the juvenile population with your wheels.

They didn't beg at first—as did the children of North Africa, Sicily and Italy. But that's changed too. No child who has gone long without sweets can withstand the miracle of American chocolate or the magic of American chewing gum. After the soldiers began half-shamefacedly tossing them out little bits of candy they caught on quickly. They have learned the technique that worked so well with European kids. They hold up their fingers in the victory signal, then hold out their other hand for candy.

They are willing to work for it, too. Troops find it almost impossible to keep them away from their quarters. Children rush up at every chance to sweep for them, carry their Garands or help shine their shoes.

Commanders officially frown on the small gifts to Japanese children, for they know it is always the first step toward fraternization on a large scale.

But there is no way to make American soldiers hate children, or keep from giving them candy and gum. And they know that 25 years from now their own children will be co-operating with these same Japanese children in a better world—or fighting them in a worse one.

HIGHWAY PAVING TO BE DISCUSSED

Paving of the highway north of Bastrop to Crossett, Ark., will be the subject of a conference between Paul Sullins, official of the Crossett Paper Company; James Madison of Bastrop and members of the Chamber of Commerce Highway committee at the Chamber's office at 4 p. m. tomorrow, it was announced yesterday by Claude Harrison, chairman of the Chamber's Highway committee. This unpaved section is an important gap in the north-south highway through the Twin Cities, and should be one of the first highways paved in the post-war highway construction program, Chairman Harrison stated.

Before the section can be paved it will be necessary to secure an agreement between the highway commissions of both Arkansas and Louisiana to pave the route, since there are two possible routes available. One direct from Bastrop to Hamburg and the other via Crossett from Bastrop to Hamburg. The route via Crossett is much preferred by Monroe interests. Chairman Harrison stated, because it will serve the important industrial center of Crossett as well as Hamburg and Bastrop.

The chamber's interest in this project does not preclude interest in other equally important northeast Louisiana highway needs, Harrison observed.

Challenge To America

Reconversion of the nation's economic life from war to peacetime status, which will soon be shifted into high gear, calls for many changes. First there must be an almost universal reversal in American thinking. For five years the one objective was to defeat a common enemy. Nothing else mattered. Cost was not to be considered. Government expenditures were seldom questioned. Industry and labor were moving high, wide and handsome.

In many circles there is reluctance to accept the many changes which must come following flush years of war. Many Congressmen are showing concern over this attitude. Realizing there must be drastic curtailment of government expenditures, Congress isn't sure where to start tightening up. It is being importuned to increase unemployment payments. Continuance of subsidies in various fields is advocated. There is danger that the problems of reconversion, with accompanying sacrifices, may be dumped in the lap of Congress by a populace grown irresponsible.

Following a period of war prosperity, it may be heresy to suggest that the time has come to pay for it. It is a foregone conclusion that there will be fewer jobs at lower wages, in spite of whatever grand ideas may be exploited from time to time. The United States is not headed for a depression. There will be jobs for all who need them, not immediately but eventually.

Those at home should not object to making a few sacrifices, which can not match services rendered by millions of young men and women in the armed forces. In short, the situation calls for a revival of Americanism.

HELP ON THE WAY

Some relief is promised for the home front army that has been valiantly fighting the ills the flesh is heir to against heavy odds since early in the war. The thin white line of doctors, dentists and nurses is soon to be reinforced. Army plans, according to testimony given before the House Military Affairs Committee, call for the discharge of 13,000 of its 45,000 medical officers by February 1. In the next three months the army will release 31,000 of its 56,000 nurses and 3,500 of its 15,000 dentists. The navy expects to discharge 1,000 of its 14,000 doctors by February 1, and 1,000 nurses by December 1, but has not reported on its 7,000 dentists.

If the navy seems to be demobilizing its medical service less rapidly than the army, the probable explanation is that the army expected a higher rate of losses with the planned invasion of Japan and prepared to handle it. Now that the need will not appear, surplus medical personnel can be dispensed with quickly.

These doctors and nurses will be welcomed with open arms. The hard-pressed men and women who have been trying to keep the civilian population in health have been under an extraordinary strain during the war years and they will be more than glad to have their burden lightened even a little. No need to say they deserve a chance to shift a part of that load—the records show that they have fought a good fight.

What the services are going to do about discharging other technical men and exempting recruits for the scientific callings from the draft is still not clear. But this is a problem that can no longer be ignored. Granted that men are needed for occupation duty, some provision should be made to restore chemists and physicists to industry and to keep new blood flowing into this all-important field.

KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK

Neither the most romantic nor most inspiring of jobs, the salvage of waste cooking fats remains one of the most important ways in which women can help their country. Even though the war is over, the country, in the words of Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, is still "alarmingly short of fats and oils."

These materials will be needed as badly in the reconversion period as they were in the manufacture of munitions. The by-products of used cooking fats go into the manufacture of an amazing variety of peacetime goods. Paints, synthetic rubber, soap, fabrics, linoleum, drugs, varnishes, paper and lubricating oils are only a few of the thousands on the list.

It will be many months before imports of fats and oils will be coming from the South Pacific in sufficient quantities to meet the needs of industry. In the meantime the government is counting on the housewives of the nation to meet the need with the kitchen grease they pour into their salvage cans.

There will be more jobs sooner in more factories if salvage grease keeps on coming in. Shortages in many household goods will disappear more quickly if the housewife does this job. The appeal now is to keep on saving fats to ease the way to reemployment and reconversion.

NEW MOTOR CARS

It has been announced that when production of motor cars was permitted, the models would be much like those of 1942, with only minor changes in streamlining. It is now revealed that the changes will be much more important.

Improvements will be made inside the hood as well as in the appearance of the cars. Changes from the 1942 models will be as great as in any pre-war year's model change.

Some of the predicted improvements are better riding qualities, new type "tri-alloy" connecting rod bearings, aluminum alloy pistons with more rings to give more compression and power, specially processed and rust-proofed valve springs, new type distributor and oil pump on one make which previously was noted for ignition trouble, more efficient carburetion and simplification of engine design.

Technological improvements developed in the course of war work will be incorporated in new car engines wherever feasible. When new models are available, they promise to be worth the long wait which the war has forced upon the motoring public.

Jimmie Fidler IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—Ken Murray, being sued for divorce by Cleatus Caldwell, is finding consolation with Florence Heller, his fiancée eight years ago. John Garfield will go to France, come spring, to star in a movie of Debussy, the composer. Add men with cause to give thanks: Roy Rogers, whose cowboy boots saved him when he was struck by a five-foot rattlesnake. The John Irelands (he's the new 20th Century-Fox find) are booked for a divorce court appearance.

Errol Flynn, advised by medicals to take a complete rest, is plotting a lengthy yachting cruise. Janet Gaynor has said "not interested" to a screen comeback offer tendered by Mary Pickford. Marva Louis, ex-wife of the heavy-weight champ, wants a movie career. Look for marital squalls in the Marilyn Maxwell-John Conte family when Conte leaves Uncle Sam's Army. A Nevada gambling syndicate is readying a sea-going casino for operation "more than 12 miles" off Santa Monica.

Cantinflas, the Mexican comedy sensation who couldn't agree with RKO on an American screen debut, is dickering with a theatre chain for a personal appearance tour at $5,000 a night. Bluebird the Robert Walker-Florence Pritchett romance; she has returned to New York, permanently. Frank Sinatra is trying to buy his way out of his part-time contract with RKO; he wants to work exclusively for MGM. The Glen (20th Century-Fox leading man) Langens are on Doc Stork's list for March. A. A. Bronkowsky, who has played all purses capped by his racing nags to the Lou Costello, Jr., Youth Foundation.

PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of a starvation week; Columbia's "Pardon My Past" (Fred MacMurray-Marguerite Chapman-William Demarest). A millionaire force with enough guffaws to make you pardon minor flaws. GOOD. RKO's "First Yank Into Tokyo" (Tom Neal-Barbara Hale). As timely as the headlines. HO HUM: PRC's "Hollywood and Vine" (Jimmy Ellison-Wanda McKay-Franklin Pangborn). A sedative that is legal only because fans still tolerate double features. BEST PERFORMANCE:

Fred MacMurray in "Pardon My Past." Augurs well for his future.

In the current best-seller, "These Are The Russians," the author reports that Soviet theatre-goers, despite their appreciation of the movie "North Star," voiced a unanimous complaint. They objected to the written-in-Hollywood music. "We have dozens of folk songs indigenous to the Ukraine," they argued. "Why not use those, instead of tailor-made songs that were not truly Russian in character?" That is sensible criticism. Furthermore, it applies not only to "North Star" but to almost every Hollywood movie with a foreign locale.

Now that Carole Landis has renounced her determination to be Mrs. Horace Schmiedlapp, it's to be hoped that she will also renounce the chip she's been wearing on her shapely shoulder. Miss Landis has made the mistake of comporting herself like a top-flight star when, as a matter of fact, she still has stardom to win. She has persisted in telling her producers what she would or would not pay her salary refused to bow to her ultimatum. Perhaps, as Mrs. Horace Schmiedlapp, she might be able to afford such tactics, but she can't afford them as Carole Landis, screen actress. Too many equally attractive girls are ready and able to take her place.

Not long ago, a State Department spokesman, after lauding Hollywood's war effort, expressed the hope that motion pictures would play a vital role in "selling" America to the post-war world. I wonder how he felt if he changed to read a paragraph in today's papers. English censors have okayed the gangster picture, "Dillinger," for release in Great Britain.

Assigning George Sanders the lead in "Bel Ami" is a perfect instance of type-casting. He plays a cynical rogue, whose philosophy is summed up in the dialogue line: "Women should be kept in ignorance. To educate a woman is like leaving a razor where a monkey can find it." De Mausematt wrote the speech but it could have been lifted from almost any interview with Sanders. ## BY HENRY McLEMORE

By Mrs. Henry McLemore

Do you have an extra Boy Scout around your house? If you do, please ship him to me—even C. O. D. If he doesn't weigh too much.

I need him to help this old lady get across streets. The sudden end of gasoline rationing caught me, and I, imagine, millions of other pedestrians, completely unprepared and out of shape. During the war years I could make across Fifth avenue or 42nd street without turning my head, so scarce were the automobiles. One didn't have to worry about a green light or a red light or any shade of light. I had almost forgotten which meant "stop" and which meant "go." Joywalking was safe for toddlers.

But now in New York—and I am sure it is the same in your city—everything with four wheels that will move is out and moving. Pedestrians now are in the same position as that of the baseball players newly returned to the game after years in the service. Just naturally out of shape, in other words.

Today I got caught in the middle of one of the broad streets that make up Park avenue. Zoom came the traffic in front of me—wham—went the traffic in back of me. Muscles I hadn't used since pre-war days came into play. I swerved and curved and bent and edged forward and backwards, trying to make the safety island in the middle of the street. My timing was very bad. My reflexes were worse. I was in grave danger and I knew it.

No shipwrecked sailor was ever more grateful to get to an island than I was to get to the safety island in the middle of Park avenue. There I found a group of pedestrians as badly frightened as I. We probably would have been there right now had there not been a natural leader among us, an elderly gentleman who, though wearing spots instead of combat boots, and carrying a cane instead of a sword, rallied us with a cry of "forward" and plunged through the oncoming enemy. Our casualties were light. I am happy to say.

Not only did the quick end of gasoline rationing catch the pedestrians unprepared—it also caught the drivers and the cars unprepared. The streets are filled with automobiles over whose junkyard graves the grass should be green. Care that developed sciatica and rheumatism during four years of storage, are now whirling along at a speed which threatens to shake them to pieces. Honestly, I have seen cars with knocked knees, rickets, puns in the chest, and all the other automotive ailments, flashing along with agony written across their faded stainless steel faces.

The drivers, too, are out of practice. There are fewer deadlier combinations than an old, battered car, and a driver grown rusty through inactivity. The only bright spot for the pedestrian these days is the fact that these old cars aren't going to survive much longer. They are on their last legs, or, better, their last tires. It is going to take more than a plentiful supply of gasoline to keep them going. I predict that in a few months the highways and byways will again be fairly traffic free, while citizens wait for the new cars to come off the assembly line. Then—oh boy! A new car and plenty of gasoline. Mammy! The speed cops will come into their own again.

That's an unpleasant thought, isn't it? Speed cops. I'd better stop before I get started.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Sunday School Lesson for Sept. 10

Scripture: Genesis 34-41

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

Judah was a man with a none too savory past when events of this lesson occurred. It was he who, more than anyone else, was responsible for Joseph being in Egypt. Reuben, it may be recalled, had persuaded his brethren to cast Joseph into a pit, when the brothers were conspiring to kill him, intending to go back and rescue Joseph and deliver him to his father. But before this could happen, a caravan of Ishmaelites, having intercepted Joseph, suggested that they sell Joseph to them—the first step of his going to Egypt. Later Judah was mixed up in a nasty affair with his daughter-in-law, the story of which is in Genesis 38.

In both of these affairs, he seems to have displayed a well-intentioned but muddled moral sense. He suggested selling Joseph, instead of killing him, because he was "our brother and our flesh." It isn't quite a brotherly act to sell one's own kin into slavery, but at that it was better than murder. When he suspected his daughter-in-law of sin, he ordered that she should be burnt to death but when his own part in the affair was brought home to him, he acknowledged his sin with frank honesty, and did what he could to atone for the wrong.

Judah was a man, like many others, with a great capacity for good and evil. The seeds of good were in him, and now in the testing time of a great opportunity, they were bearing fruit. Where he had formerly been willing to sell Joseph, he was now urging that he be allowed to sacrifice himself so that his brothers might take back home with them little Benjamin, the son of Jacob's old age, who had taken the place of Joseph.

The story is one of intense dramatic setting, as Joseph had planned it all to evoke Judah's passion, at a place, and evidence of his moral restoration before the climax when, overcome with emotion and unable to restrain himself longer, he made himself known to his brethren.

To Judah, particularly, the revelation must have meant deep heart-searching and poignant recollections, as he remembered that it was he who had first sent Joseph on his long course of slavery, imprisonment, and ultimate power and saviorship in time of famine. With what relief Judah must have heard Joseph's words of generous forgiveness, and his assurance that it had all happened for the outworking of God's providence. Nevertheless how deeply his conscience must have condemned him, and inclined him to be a better man.

It is a satisfaction to see Judah, after his devious course, a changed man, greatly concerned for his family responsibilities, and willing to sacrifice himself lest he bring further tragedy upon his aged father. Commentators stress his family loyalty as the central fact of this lesson; but the great and true example of family loyalty and unswerving acceptance at all its opportunities of love and privilege is Joseph. The highest that can be said of Judah is that he was at last worthy to be called Joseph's brother.

News BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—"The most momentous session of Congress in peace-time history" is what the radio voices are saying of the quiet, uneventful, dull reconversion of the 79th, after holidays. This sounds strange, with no outstanding reconversion program proposed, no peace treaties yet ready, no tax reduction from war in prospect, no new spectacular spending program to enlighten things as the administration is preparing to run its $50,000,000,000 annual post-war spending rate down in 10 months to a tidy and permanent $25,000,000,000, and needs no appropriations or legislation for this or lead-lease, or any pending matter of corresponding importance.

No one said anything momentous the first few days Mr. Truman specifically avoided a tone of gravity or weightiness in his message. He just went whole-hog, as they would say in Missouri, for the Roosevelt program. This could have been a shock to some people, but not to any reader of this column (see first two columns on Mr. Truman when he assumed office, say, in the world to just that).

The program was so well known, that the news-men, who usually scurry about and get comment from congressmen on all important presidential messages, did not bother the first few hours afterward. They said they would get some later when they got around to it.

Yet I think the radio voices—for another reason—were right. The unsensational and routine facial appearance of the opening and program really represents a delayed new movement of the C. I. O. P. A. C. and left. New Deal clamor to capture control of the course of government.

Every outstanding item of the congressional agenda that Mr. Truman presented or endorsed originated in that source—without a single exception.

This session heralds the C. I. O. moving in for the pay-off on the last election, now that peace has returned. It is a pay-off always denied to a major extent under Roosevelt chiefly by congressional resistance and factional opposition within the administration. It includes the full employment plan, increased unemployment insurance, increase of minimum wage from 40 to 60 cents an hour, "no union busting legislation" as Mr. Truman said, expanded social security, one-man management of surplus property (Roosevelt idea, no tax reduction, continued spending for employment practices, anti-lynching and anti-poll tax and nothing else except a Pearl Harbor investigation. The Ball-Burton-Hatch reform bill is awaiting a belated hearing.)

The program sounds prosaic because it hardly fits the viable facts of economic life today—the crying need for employment apparent in the want-ad section of every newspaper, the current official promises of a boom for the next 3 to 5 years, and even politically, the impregnable prestige of the Truman administration; but that's the program.

Now, just fully or not, the common opinion in Congress is that Mr. Truman has decided to go that way, definitely. This conclusion is natural not alone from the program but the soundness of appointment of Ben Cohen, an original Roosevelt brain-truster, to the third ranking post and of C. I. O.'s McKee to the maritime commission.

All this leaves the average congressman to make a decision whether he will stick by his guns of opposition and face a fight by the C. I. O. P. A. C. against reelection next year, or join the Washington trend. Frankly, I think most of them will stick by their guns for several reasons. The program itself is not popular now. It has no evident full body of public opinion behind it. Furthermore C. I.

VETERAN HELD IN GIRL'S SLAYING

Returnee Allegedly Confesses To Fatal Beating Of Anna Dreyer

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 8. (AP)—A medically discharged veteran was arrested today, charged with the slaying of a girl, Anna Elizabeth Dreyer, 17, and left her in the underbrush along a country road where her body was found by searchers.

Capt. Andrew Hunk of the state police identified the man as Fredrick L. Hunk, 39.

State Police Capt. Charles H. DeWitt said Hunk told of meeting Miss Dreyer, known to friends as "Sunshine Girl" of Fayette City, and offering to drive her home from a restaurant where she worked.

D. W. Smith, Hunk's attorney, said when they parked, the girl fought off his advances and the man beat her with his fists for five minutes.

Smith said Hunk then drove the girl home, but she was unable to get out of the car. He drove two miles further where he dragged her out of the car and strangled her.

He then took the girl's belt, a gift from her father, and ran with it. The girl's father, a farmer, and her mother, a nurse, were notified.

Police are looking for the girl's father, a farmer, and her mother, a nurse, who were notified.

VETERAN HELD IN GIRL'S SLAYING

Returnee Allegedly Confesses To Fatal Beating Of Anna Dreyer

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 8.—(P)—A medically-discharged war veteran was arrested and made a statement, state police said today, that he had beaten Anna Elizabeth Dreyer, 17, and left her in the underbrush along a country road where her body was found by searchers.

Capt. Andrew Hudak of the state police identified the man as Fredrick I. Hauser, 19.

State Police Corp. Charles H. DeWitt said Hauser told of meeting Miss Dreyer, known to friends as the "Sunshine Girl" of Fayette City, and offering to drive her home from a restaurant where she worked.

DeWitt said Hauser gave this version:

When they parked, the girl fought off his advances, and the man beat her with his fists "four or five times." Miss Dreyer dropped to the ground and he dragged her into the machine. Unable to drive her, he drove two miles further where he dragged her, nude except for one shoe, to the underbrush.

He then took the girl's belt, a gift from her brother serving with the armed forces in Germany, and looped it around her throat.

Driving further, he threw the girl's purse and parts of her clothing into the woods.

DeWitt said Hauser repeated his statement to Fayette District Attorney Vance Cotton while a stenographic detail was taken down. The district attorney said Hauser had not signed the statement, but that he would ask him to do so later.

Just before the man's arrest at Fayette City, Miss Dreyer was known as the "Sunshine Girl" because of a vigorous health program she followed as a result of a serious illness three years ago.

350 SURVIVED HORROR CRUISE

Japs Loaded 1,619 American Prisoners Aboard Prison Vessel

JINSEN, Korea, Sept. 8.—(P)—Less than 350 survivors of the 1,619 American prisoners of war whom the Japanese loaded aboard a ship in the Philippines Dec. 13, 1944.

The Americans were packed in the hold of steamer Oryoku Maru in Subic bay on Dec. 15-16 when American bombers attacking shipping in the bay sank the prison vessel. Nearly 300 died then.

Five thousand Japanese aboard the ship were rescued by other Nipponese, but the Americans were left in the holds. Many of the Yanks went mad from the horror.

The 1,341 Americans who finally broke out of the ship and reached shore were rounded up and kept for five days in a tennis court without food. Then they were given two table-spoons of rice each—a daily diet which continued until Dec. 27.

Once more they were loaded aboard a Formosa-bound vessel, a cargo ship which had been carrying artillery horses and was still deep in manure. Many men died in the holds and their bodies were left there as long as three days, a colonel said. Crazy by thirst, some of the prisoners bit their own arms and sucked the blood, he said.

This ship was bombed in harbor at Formosa, and again the Japanese refused to let the prisoners take shelter. Several hundred were killed by a bomb burst in the hold.

Twenty-six of the men rescued today were enlisted men from a medical unit captured on Batuan. Others were officers also captured in the Philippines.

Regardless of rank, all were forced to do hard labor of all sorts. While in the Philippines, said one major, a Japanese lieutenant commanding a farm detail issued pick handles to his men, who moved among the prisoners in the fields and beat them like water buffaloes.

Finally less than 600 survivors of the original 1,619 reached a new prison camp on southern Kyushu in mid-January this year, as a blizzard was raging. All were in this clothing, but they were marched around in the storm and in subsequent snows all winter.

During that period, they said, all dropped to less than 100 pounds. A colonel who said he originally weighed nearly 250 pounds fell off to 85—a typical case.

The prisoners were taken to Korea last April. In May they said their treatment suddenly became much better.

L. T. I. OPENS TERM MONDAY

Report Lists Faculty And Courses Offered This Semester

The Louisiana Training Institute opens in 1945-46 school term tomorrow, a week ahead of other state public schools. Principal K. L. Youngblood announced yesterday in a report listing the faculty and courses offered at L. T. I. this semester.

L. T. I., as a matter of policy, always opens a week ahead of public schools so that any boys leaving the institute during the school year will be a week ahead of classes in any public school he may enter and thus have ample time to adjust himself to a new school.

School grades to be taught this year include all grades from the first through the twelfth. Both elementary school and high school are state approved. All teachers and students must measure up to the standards set by the state department of education. The school faculty consists of the principal and 12 other teachers. There are 125 students who will begin the term. Enrollment is expected to go beyond 150 before mid-term, it was reported.

High school subjects to be taught this year include English I, II, III, and IV, Algebra I, plane geometry, civics, American history, military science and tactics, instrumental music and hand, speech, agriculture, bookkeeping and accounting, biology, and physical education besides the vocational trade subjects.

All vocational trades taught last year will again be taught, and there will be two important additions—plumbing and electric arc welding. Dr. Andrew Triche, supervisor of vocational education for the state department of education has recently transferred the welding equipment and other equipment from the other state trade schools. The plumbing and electric arc welding courses join an impressive list already being taught, namely: Acetylene welding, automobile mechanics, farm mechanics, metal work, woodwork, carpentry, cabinet-making, sewing and industrial garment making, shoe shop and leatherwork, barber shop and barber science. Accounting and a four-year course in agriculture are generally considered as academic courses but are valuable additions to the vocational program of the local school.

Principal Youngblood will be in his sixth year with L. T. I. Willis A. Tarver, assistant principal and athletic coach, will begin his third year. Other returning teachers of last semester are W. C. Crosby, primary grades first, second and third, and handicraft arts; Mrs. Frances G. Stockstill, fourth and fifth grades; Mrs. F. D. Bachman, seventh and eighth grades; F. D. Bachman, librarian and high school mathematics; M. P. Kelly, bandmaster and music teacher; C. W. Edwards, woodwork, agriculture, and accounting; Mrs. Verna Manning, sewing; Henry Austin, shoe shop; and L. W. McDonald, welding and auto mechanics. New teachers on the faculty are Mrs. C. W. Edwards, who will teach sixth grade and high school social science; and John K. Perry, who will teach the plumbing and barber trades.

No state in the union is entirely without some big game, although the white-tail deer population of Kansas is only 15 and Delaware has only 19. The white-tail population of Pennsylvania is estimated at 750,000.

NEW ARMY SHIP

NEW YORK.—(P)—One of the newest ships in the Army's navy is a floating power plant developed after a battleship was hooked up to the power lines of a large city to supply current during an emergency.

The plant is housed in a steel hull having a length of 318 feet, a beam of 70 feet and a maximum draft of 14 feet. It generates electricity at 13,500 volts by means of a 19-stage turbine driven with steam from two gas- or oil-fired boilers.

BAPTISTS WILL DEDICATE TWO BUILDINGS DEBT-FREE

Handsome Structures Built In 20-Year Ministry Of Rev. Hastings

The First Baptist Church will hold the most important celebration in its history today when the pastor, L. T. Hastings will observe the completion of 20 years as pastor here and also the entire enlarged plant will be dedicated debt free. The building program, successfully completed by this church, represents an expenditure of $269,072. In the years that Rev. Hastings has been the leader of this congregation, its membership has been doubled.

The program of today to celebrate these events comprise the Sunday school hour at 9:45 a. m., the unveiling of a marble tablet and dedication service at 10:30 a. m.; morning worship at 11 a. m. when Dr. E. D. Head, president of Southwestern Theological Seminary, will bring the message on "The Winning Church." The music will be specially elaborate, including selections from the "Messiah." From 4 to 6 p. m. there will be an informal reception held for the pastor and his wife, Training Union and Brotherhood will be held at 6:55 p. m. and the evening service will be at 8 p. m. when the pastor will deliver the sermon.

The building program of this church consisted of the erection of the educational building and the enlargement of the church auditorium. This program was initiated in March 1933 when the Sunday school class taught by Deacon A. O. Davis bought a few bricks and stacked them on a lot where the education building now stands, it was not until November 1933 that the board of deacons appointed a building committee composed of Frank Masling, chairman; A. O. Davis, E. H. Murrell, R. M. Drew and Sam Newsom. This committee with the pastor, board of deacons and the church membership on December 10, 1933 held a dirt-breaking service and started the educational building off with supreme faith and $9.61 cash in the bank. The program was conceived in the depth of the depression out of a sense of need and with indomitable courage and unfathomed faith.

On January 25, 1934 was begun the pouring of the building's foundation which was completed on February 9. On February 23, a volunteer group of dirt movers was formed led by Elmer Culpepper and Robert Cowden. On this same day a finance committee was formed comprising E. H. Murrell, chairman and Hugh Davis. It was not until March 23 that all dirt from the foundation was moved. Two months later the pouring of the concrete slab of the second floor was completed and on August 12, the first service was held on the open slab of the second floor. This, 1934 passed with the second floor completed but with no walls erected.

On May 3, 1935 work was resumed and concrete columns rose from the second floor and a temporary roof was set up over the incomplete structure and the first service under the new roof held June 2, 1935. Then came a two-year cessation of building and in June 1937, a contract was let to complete the concrete framework and floors at a cost of $17,000. February 3 1938 bids were received for the completion of the exterior, Frank Masling whose figures were $32,163 was awarded the contract and a loan of $35,000 was secured from the People's Homestead. On August 7 a contract was let to Mr. Masling for $10,700 to complete the interior of the fourth floor. On October 18, the intermediate departments moved into their permanent headquarters on the fourth floor.

In the spring of 1940, an "Auditorium Enlargement Campaign" was waged and $27,000 collected in 30 days. On June 11, 1940 work started on the auditorium which was completed by December 19 and the first service held therein.

In August 1943 the final work order was issued to Mr. Masling to complete the interiors of the first three floors of the educational building. In exactly 10 years after the first bricks were bought by the class of Mr. Davis, the handsome new church edifice and educational building were completed. Final payment on the last loan negotiated was made June 12, 1945.

But of vastly more significance than the building program of the past 20 years has been the personal ministry of its devoted pastor and Mrs. Hastings. A total of 1,522 persons have been brought into the fold of the Good Shepherd through this period. A total of 3,263 members have joined this church during this period by letter. The church has been exceptionally blessed.

The Central Baptist Church, the Sterling Baptist Church, the West Monroe First Baptist Church, and more recently the College Place Baptist Church have all been aided financially and spiritually by the mother church here in downtown Monroe.

The following represents the expression of fellow workers of Rev. Hastings concerning him and his leadership:

"Brother Hastings' 20 years as pastor have demonstrated and proven his capacity for leadership. Louisiana Baptists recognized his qualities of leadership twice honoring him as President of the Louisiana State Baptist Convention. This was an unusual and well deserved honor. Moreover his leadership has been reflected in our church affairs. He has led our church forward in all avenues of church activities. Our enlarged church and auditorium and our magnificent educational building were conceived in his mind and were the outgrowth of his leadership. His aggressive leadership has reflected itself in fiscal affairs of our church and in all the varied organization activities of our church."

The committee on arrangements for today's celebration comprises D. C. Black chairman; E. H. Miller, George D. Holland, Mrs. W. C. Curry, Mrs. Forrest Seaman, Frank Masling, H. K. Litton, and E. A. Alexander.

On the tablet that is to be unveiled and which is placed at the northwest corner of the educational building there is the following inscription:

"Educational Building: First Baptist Church, Erected 1934-1940, L. T. Hastings, pastor; D. C. Black, Educational Director."

MRS. STERN ENDS COLLECTING FATS

Having served faithfully and self-sacrificingly for two and a half years in the collection of waste fats as a war-time essential project, Mrs. Bessie Stern stated Saturday that she has finished the job. With the war ended, only a straggling few are now contributing waste fats and it no longer seems to be worthwhile to continue, she states.

In the several years she has operated a stand for fat collection at Third and Olive streets, Mrs. Stern estimates she has collected from 35 to 40 thousand pounds of fats. In one year, 17 carloads were shipped out.

In completing her work, Mrs. Stern wishes to thank Mrs. J. J. Potts, Mrs. Charles Beadles and the general public for assistance and cooperation that they offered her in her efforts.

It is expected that the general will remain here until tomorrow when he will be in New Orleans.

Patriotic decorations throughout the Monroe business district for the parade and reception of Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault here Tuesday afternoon are being urged by Ed Seymour, chairman in charge of plans for the reception, who last night said all merchants in the downtown area were being asked to display flags and other decorations from their store fronts and in window displays.

Sidewalk flags should be displayed Tuesday, Chairman Seymour urged, and he expressed the opinion that merchants should utilize their window displays so that they will prove a credit to the valiant leader of the Flying Tigers.

Smith, a resident of White's Ferry road, was arrested on a warrant sworn out by K. C. White, alias of White's Ferry road, who charged he caught Smith taking catfish valued at $15 from a net belonging to him in the Ouachita river. The alleged theft of fish was said to have taken place last Sunday.

Also taken into custody yesterday by sheriff's deputies was R. J. Moore, who was turned over to sheriff's officers by State Trooper B. Works who accused Moore of operating a motor vehicle, a gravel truck, in a careless and reckless manner on a public highway. Moore was freed under $50 bond.

The consignment being painted red and marked with an even number on a channel and date, the back side of the channel on entering.

AMERICAN FLAG

The raising of the flag over the embassy grounds—rather than over a Japanese building such as the diet, in the gesture of an arrogant conqueror—was impressive in its simplicity.

MacArthur's face, behind which he often hides his emotions, was of serious mien.

He arrived shortly before the 11 a. m. ceremony (9 p. m. Friday Central war time) after motoring from Kotohama. His khaki-colored car with five stars rolled up the short incline within the embassy compound through an honor guard of the Seventh regiment, First cavalry division, with fixed bayonets.

The guard extended from the embassy ground for two blocks. At the end of the line clusters of Japanese gathered in milk curiosity.

There had been little interest evidenced by the Japanese in the troops' arrival, not even among the groups of office workers in downtown Tokyo. They merely stared impassively at the troops of reconnaissance elements which had "GHQ" printed on their windshields.

MacArthur entered the grounds accompanied by Admiral Halsey, commander of the Third fleet, and Lt. General Robert L. Eichelberger whose Eighth army is occupying central and north Honshu, including Tokyo.

They greeted General Chennault, who walked swiftly to a position in front of the granite but now empty, hilly pond in the center of the embassy compound.

The clear notes of "The General's March" floated over the quiet Azabu district from the first cavalry band. MacArthur then spoke his terse, flag-raising order to General Eichelberger, who saluted.

Atop the chancellery building, 180 yards distant, three cavalry veterans stood on the twisted, rusted metal roof and black embers. The building had been damaged by a B-29 fire raid May 25.

The soldiers were Lt. William J. Cochran, (2750 East 13th St. Joplin, Mo.), Staff Sgt. Charles R. Shopshire, Jackson, Ohio, and Sgt. Morton Greenhaver, Humboldt, Kans.—all veterans of the Philippines campaign.

They slowly raised the flag up the 20-foot pole while the band played the "Star Spangled Banner."

Admiral Halsey stood silently at attention. His long, shaggy brows seemed shaggy still. A little later, he looked around the embassy garden, then started, in unabashed concern, at the flag as if thinking of the long hard pull which had brought his Third fleet to Tokyo bay.

MacArthur held a stiff salute until the flag reached the top. He seemed absorbed by the significance of the ceremony.

No Japanese were present.

Patriotic bands, a multitude, not a band, played and the flag, if hung long, is from the roof of the chancellery above the chancellery and tipped by a flagpole.

Lt. Col. Eugene Patrick Walsh, of Richmond, Va., stepped forward and cried:

"On this historical day, as peace comes to all mankind, we humbly request the abundant blessings of Almighty God on all nations through the entire world. Long and far, the peace may be found and shed to the ends of the earth, and may many the Lord God order our days and deeds in his peace forever and ever. Amen."

As the prayer ended, MacArthur's serious expression gave way to a smile.

He shook hands warmly with Eichelberger and Halsey, then said to the latter, "Let's go, Bill," and led the way to the waiting cars.

The tension broke. Throughout the crowd's comments were heard as "Our job is done; when do we go home?"

The flag was unfurled in a position where it can be seen over only a few miles of this once great city, now laid waste by fire and bombs. It hardly could be said the Americans had forced a humiliating peace on the vanquished foe.

The well-disciplined troops had begun a dignified occupation.

The first reconnaissance groups entered around 7 a. m. (6 p. m. Friday Eastern war time) and set up a guard at the Imperial hotel, to serve for the time being as general headquarters.

The first enlisted man to step across an imaginary line into Tokyo was Pfc. Paul E. Davis, 24, driver of D troop, 12th regiment. He was allowed the honor because of his Pacific service—and because his home county of Ottawa, Oklahoma, had offered a $1,000 reward.

The seventh regiment of the first cavalry division, the regiment which fought the last stand with Custer on the little big horn, opened the mass entry from Chofu.

Few Japanese were in the streets or along the road. They continued their errands and drank in small businesses. Seldom did they glance at the columns of armored cars, self-propelled field pieces and personnel carriers crowded with troops in battle gear.

Some 450 men of the honor guard reached the embassy about 8:30 a. m. by truck. They were from F and H troops of the seventh regiment's second battalion.

They lined up along a route which had been taken many times in the troubled days of 1941 by then Ambassador Joseph C. Grew and his assistants.

One hundred soldiers lined the short walk to the headquarters where MacArthur issued his historic order.

Behind the line, in part of the embassy garden, division, regimental and troop colors and other American flags were held by sturdy color bearers.

The cavalry band, arranged to MacArthur's left, played "The Star Spangled Banner" and "The American Legion March."

There was no king or monarch as the soldiers waited two hours for the ceremony to begin. The solemnity of the occasion affected everyone.

Others in MacArthur's party at the flag raising included Gen. George C. Kenner, commander of the Far East army; Lt. Gen. Robert K. Sutherland, MacArthur's chief of staff; Maj. Gen. Charles E. Eichelberger, chief of staff, and Brig. Gen. Courtney Whitney, assistant to MacArthur.

There obviously were many better men among the men at the scene, but only one of them, the first enlisted man, was to be the first to enter the capital.

MacArthur's first order was to Pfc. Paul E. Davis, 24, of the 12th regiment's D troop, the first enlisted man officially to enter the capital.

Davis was given the honor because of his long service in the Pacific and because of a reward of $1,000 offered by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of his home county of Ottawa, Oklahoma, for the first enlisted man entering Tokyo.

All types of armored vehicles except tanks rolled into the capital in what amounted to a victory parade. Tanks were held in reserve at the outskirts in order to avoid damage to streets.

Many residents of Tokyo's outskirts who had been subjected to bombardment by air and artillery were obviously afraid of the Americans. Numerous young girls ran to hide as the troops moved by.

One village had huge signs posted reading: "Take care of infectious disease is prevalent in this village."

Chase halted the column for a brief formal entrance ceremony, at the city limits.

He was accompanied by his staff, proud of their division one of the hardest fighting in the Pacific war. The staff marched together across the line, climaxing their campaign through New Guinea, the Admiralty islands, Leyte, Luzon and the entrance into Manila.

There was no display, however, as the column moved in behind the general—even the guidons had been removed from the armored vehicles in compliance with General MacArthur's order for a simple entrance.

An attempt by a group of Texans to fly their state flag from an armored car brought a sharp order from Chase to "Get that down—no flags."

The formal entrance was made by F. troops of the Seventh regiment, whose history includes Custer's last stand in the American Indian wars. The troop was commanded by Lt. John W. Felley. The regiment commander is Brig. Gen. Hugh Hoffman of 208 Elmhurst St., San Antonio, Tex. The Second squadron of which F troop is a part is commanded by Maj. William West III, of Warenton, Va.

GEN. WAINWRIGHT

Wright walked forward to the stirring strains of "The General's March."

A grey-haired woman, the general's sister quickly rushed forward. Wainwright was taken completely by surprise, as he had not been informed that Mrs. Frederick Mears, of Seattle, Wash., would greet him.

"This is good, this is awfully good," he said softly as he embraced his sister again and again.

The general walked with a cane, but Beebe explained the general's limp was caused by an old injury he had received years ago while playing polo.

Wainwright's husky son, Capt. J. M. Wainwright V, met his father and nearly bowed him over as he grasped him in his arms.

A group of Filipino officers who had fought under General Wainwright, repudiated in their benediction uniforms, awaited anxiously for their first view of their former leader.

"To say I am happy to be home after five years abroad would be to give the lie," he said with quiet feeling. "I never realized I would receive such a welcome."

Tomorrow General Wainwright will ride at the head of a military parade in his honor, and then will leave for Washington to make his official report on the first war in the Pacific, the Japanese prison camp where he was held captive for so long.

Washington is preparing one of its greatest receptions for Wainwright Monday.

Flying in with his party about midday, the general first will greet veterans of the heroic days of Bataan and Corregidor at the Pentagon, and then receive the thousands of half a million Washingtonians in a parade to the capital. There Congress will pay him homage.

The general will be greeted at the municipal airport by his wife. As he crosses the Potomac river into the District of Columbia, a 15-gun salute will boom out, followed by the official city reception at which Gen. Carlos Romulo, resident commissioner of the Philippines, will take part.

The party will head up Constitution Avenue to the Capitol for the meeting

ing with Congress. Returning along the same route, Wainwright's next stop will be the White House for a visit with President Truman.

COAST GUARD CUTS DISCHARGE POINTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The coast guard cut its discharge points for male personnel today as indications came the navy would modify its system to give additional credit for sea and overseas service.

At the same time two senators suggested that all soldiers 30 years of age or older who have children be released, along with young men who left college studies to go to war.

One of the Senators also suggested that limited service soldiers on special duty be released to make room for civilians who might need their jobs.

The navy modification of its point discharge system also may bring a reduction in total point scores required for release, it was indicated.

The coast guard, operating in wartime as a part of the navy, cut its points today for male personnel, from 40 to 43 for commissioned and warrant officers and from 41 to 40 for enlisted personnel. The old points were the same as the navy's.

The coast guard left unchanged the point scores for SPARS—35 for officers and 29 for enlisted women—the same as WAVES.

The first bound book printed in New York was issued in 1634 by William Bradford who was invited to become official printer for the city for 40 pounds a year and half the benefit of his printing, besides what served the public."

AMERICAN FLAG

The raising of the flag over the embassy grounds—rather than over a Japanese building such as the diet, in the gesture of an arrogant conqueror—was impressive in its simplicity.

MacArthur's face, behind which he often hides his emotions, was of serious mien.

He arrived shortly before the 11 a. m. ceremony (9 p. m. Friday Central war time) after motoring from Kokohama. His khaki-colored car with five stars rolled up the short incline within the embassy compound through an honor guard of the Seventh regiment, First cavalry division, with fixed bayonets.

The guard extended from the embassy ground for two blocks. At the end of the line clusters of Japanese gathered in milk curiosity.

There had been little interest evidenced by the Japanese in the troops' arrival, not even among the groups of office workers in downtown Tokyo. They merely stared impassively at jeeps of reconnaissance elements which had "GHQ" printed on their windshields.

MacArthur entered the grounds accompanied by Admiral Halsey, commander of the Third fleet, and Lt. General Robert L. Eichelberger whose Eighth army is occupying central and north Honshu, including Tokyo.

They greeted General Chase. MacArthur walked swiftly to a position in front of the granite but now empty, lily pond in the center of the embassy compound.

The clear notes of "The General's March" floated over the quiet Azabu district from the first cavalry band. MacArthur then spoke his terse flag-raising order to General Eichelberger, who saluted.

Atop the chancellery building, 100 yards distant, three cavalry veterans stood on the twisted, rusted metal roof amid black embers. The building had been damaged by a B-29 fire raid May 25.

The soldiers were Lt. William J. Cochran, (2730 East 13th St.) Joplin, Mo., Staff Sgt. Charles R. Shopshire, Jackson, Ohio, and Sgt. Morton Copenhagen, Humboldt, Kans.—all veterans of the Philippines campaign.

They slowly raised the flag up the 30 foot pole while the band played the "Star Spangled Banner."

Admiral Halsey stood silently at attention. His long, shaggy brows seemed shaggier still. A little later, he looked around the embassy garden, then stared in unabashed concentration at the flag as if thinking of the long hard pull which had brought his Third fleet to Tokyo bay.

MacArthur held a stiff salute until the flag reached the top. He seemed absorbed by the significance of the occasion.

No Japanese were present. Protected by a hillside, not a breath of wind ruffled the flag. If hung limply from the roof of the chancellery above blasted chimneys and ripped iron installations.

Lt. Col. Eugene Patrick Walsh, of Richmond, Va., stepped forward and prayed:

"On this historical day, as peace comes to all mankind, we humbly entreat the abundant blessings of Almighty God on all nations throughout the entire world. Long and valiantly have men fought and died to see this day of peace; and now may the Lord God order our days and deeds in his peace forever and ever. Amen."

As the prayer ended, MacArthur's serious expression gave way to a smile.

He shook hands warmly with Eichelberger and Halsey, then said to the latter, "Let's go, Bill," and led the way to the waiting cars.

The tension broke. Throughout the crowd such comments were heard as: "Our job is done; when do we go home?"

The flag was unfurled in a position where it can be seen over only a few miles of this once great city, now laid waste by fire and bombs. It hardly could be said the Americans had forced a humiliating peace on the vanquished foe.

The well-disciplined troops had begun a dignified occupation.

The first reconnaissance groups entered around 7 a. m. (6 p. m. Friday Eastern war time) and set up a guard at the Imperial hotel, to serve for the time being as general headquarters.

The first enlisted man to step across an imaginary line into Tokyo was Pfc Paul E. Davis, 24, driver of D troop, 12th regiment. He was allowed the honor because of his Pacific service—and because his home county of Ottawa, Oklahoma, had offered a $1,000 reward.

The seventh regiment of the first cavalry division, the regiment which fought the last stand with Custer on the little big horn, opened the mass entry from Chofu.

Few Japanese were in the streets or along the road. They continued their errands and their work in small business places. Seldom did they give a glance to the columns of armored cars, self-propelled field pieces and personnel carriers crowded with troops in battle gear.

Some 450 men of the honor guard reached the embassy about 8:30 a. m. by truck. They were from F, G and H troops of the seventh regiment's second battalion.

They lined up along a route which had been taken many times in the troubled days of 1941 by then Ambassador Joseph C. Grew and his assistants.

One hundred soldiers lined the short walk to the loudspeaker where MacArthur issued his historic order.

Behind the lily pond, in part of the embassy garden, division, regimental and troop colors and other American flags were held by sturdy color bearers.

The cavalry band, arranged to MacArthur's left, wore shiny white helmets and carried polished instruments.

There was no joking or merriment as the soldiers waited two hours for the ceremony to begin. The solemnity of the occasion affected everyone.

Others in MacArthur's party at the flag raising included Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of the Far East air forces, Lt. Gen. Richard K. Sutherland, MacArthur's chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Clives Byers, Eichelberger's chief of staff, and Brig. Gen. Courtney Whitney, assistant to MacArthur.

There obviously were many bitter memories among the men at the symbolic end of their journey. The trim soldiers, with freshly pressed khaki uniforms, helmets and combat boots, with bayonets fixed to their rifles, had fought many of the hardest campaigns of the Pacific war, including the battle for Manila.

The neighboring district around the embassy bears grim evidence of the war. For several blocks on two approaches to the embassy everything is flattened.

As the occupation, which will bring 15,000 troops into a 40 square mile area of Tokyo by Monday, progressed, a naval task force of the north Pacific fleet began moving today into Mutsu bay, 400 miles north of Tokyo, on north Honshu tip.

The warships, commanded by Vice Adm. Frank Jack Fletcher, approached Cimatona naval base which is to be surrendered formally tomorrow.

TOKYO (Saturday), Sept. 8. —(AP)—Only the children of Tokyo paid much open attention to American troops as they moved in to occupy the capital of conquered Japan today.

Groups of children on their way to school stared at the passing line of Americans. Some waved. Others bowed stiffly. A number held up fingers in what appeared to be a "V" for victory sign but some American experts said it was a Japanese juvenile sign of contempt.

The few people who were on the streets or along the roads gave only passing glances to the columns of armored cars, self-propelled field pieces and personnel carriers crowded with troops.

Maj. Gen. William C. Chase led his First cavalry division into the city when he jumped from his jeep and strode across the city limits line at Chofu, on the southwestern outskirts. Immediately behind him came Pfc. Paul E. Davis, 24, of the 12th regiment's D troop—the first enlisted man officially to enter the capital.

Davis was given the honor because of his long service in the Pacific and because of a reward of $1,000 offered by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of his home county of Ottawa, Oklahoma to the first enlisted man entering Tokyo.

All types of armored vehicles except tanks rolled into the capital in what amounted to a victory parade. Tanks were held in reserve at the outskirts in order to avoid damage to streets.

Many residents of Tokyo's outskirts, who had been subjected to propaganda stories about pillage and rape, were obviously afraid of the Americans. Numerous young girls ran to hide as the troops moved by.

One village had huge signs posted reading: "Take care of infections. Disease is prevalent in this village." Chase halted the column for a brief formal entrance ceremony at the city limits.

Tomorrow General Wainwright will ride at the head of a military parade in his honor, and then will leave for Washington to make his official report on just what happened in the Japanese prison camp where he was held captive for so long.

Washington is preparing one of its greatest receptions for Wainwright Monday.

Flying in with his party about midday, the general first will greet veterans of the heroic days of Bataan and Corregidor at the Pentagon, and then receive the plaudits of half a million Washingtonians in a parade to the capitol. There Congress will pay him homage.

The general will be greeted at the municipal airport by his wife. As he crosses the Potomac river into the District of Columbia, a 17-gun salute will boom out, followed by the official city reception in which Gen. Carlos Romulo, resident commissioner of the Philippines, will take part.

The party will head up Constitution Avenue to the Capitol for the meeting with Congress. Returning along the same route, Wainwright's next stop will be the White House for a visit with President Truman.

COAST GUARD CUTS DISCHARGE POINTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. —(AP)—The coast guard cut its discharge points for male personnel today as indications came the navy would modify its system to give additional credit for sea and overseas service.

At the same time two senators suggested that all soldiers 30 years of age or older who have children be released, along with young men who left college studies to go to war.

One of the Senators also suggested that limited service soldiers on special duty be released to make room for civilians who might need their jobs.

The navy modification of its point discharge system also may bring a reduction in total point scores required for release, it was indicated.

The coast guard, operating in wartime as a part of the navy, cut its points today for male personnel, from 40 to 42 for commissioned and warrant officers and from 44 to 46 for enlisted personnel. The old points were the same as the navy's.

The coast guard left unchanged the point scores for SPARS—35 for officers and 29 for enlisted women—the same as WAVES.

The first book printed in New York was issued in 1694 by William Bradford who was invited to become official printer for the city for "40 pounds a year and half the benefit of his printing, besides what served the public."

TWO NAMED IN BIGAMY CHARGE

Woman Complains Husband Was Spending Half His Time With Other Wife

Bigamy charges against a Monroe man and woman who allegedly married each other with previous mates living and undivorced were filed with District Attorney George W. Lester here yesterday and sheriff's deputies took into custody Carl Tonie Boyte, 4004 Peach street, and Mrs. Leslie Mae Walls Wood-Boyte, 310 Hart street, who were being held in the Ouachita parish jail last night.

The tangled matrimonial affair came to light yesterday when Mrs. Leslie Mae Wood-Boyte, whose maiden name was Walls, appeared at the district attorney's office and complained that her husband, C. T. Boyte, had feloniously married her December 2, 1944, while having a living, undivorced wife.

Authorities disclosed that Mrs. Wood-Boyte complained that her husband was spending half his time with his other wife, Mrs. Mary Louise Boyte, who lives in the southern part of Monroe. She allegedly claimed Boyte would live a week with her and then go and live a week with his first wife, a sheriff's deputy said.

A warrant for Boyte's arrest was sworn out before Judge W. H. Horner and while deputies were on their way to arrest the man District Attorney Lester, in a way he has not revealed, said he learned the complaining woman had a living undivorced husband. He immediately swore out a warrant himself for her arrest.

District Attorney Lester said he learned the No. 2 Mrs. Boyte had a husband, Elton T. Wood, Jr., living at Winnboro.

Lester said investigation into the affair revealed Boyte had married his first wife at Oak Grove a few years ago and that he had two children by his first wife. He said Elton T. Wood, Jr. was married to the second Mrs. Boyte at Bastrop in 1942. Wood and his wife were separated in 1943 but they have never been legally divorced, Lester said.

Mrs. Boyte No. 2 had no children by either marriage, the district attorney reported.

The marriage between Boyte and Mrs. Wood was said to have taken place in Arkansas.

Both defendants are being held in default of bonds of $500 each. All principals in the case are young men and women whose ages are in the twenties.

KIMMEL OFFERED A COURT MARTIAL

Navy Receives No Response From Admiral On Offer Of Trial

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, disclosed today that the navy has offered Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, navy commander at Pearl Harbor, when the Japanese struck, a court-martial if he wants it.

The revelation came in a letter from Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, part of which was made public by the senator, which checked to congress the decision on making public confidential information which a naval court of inquiry gathered about the Pearl Harbor disaster.

In mid-afternoon the navy said there had been no response from the admiral on the offer of trial.

The letter from Forrestal quoted a report on the Pearl Harbor investigation made last spring by Vice Adm. H. K. Hewitt, and said the report contained the recommendation of the navy judge advocate general and of Fleet Adm. Ernest J. King that Kimmel be given a court-martial.

"These recommendations and the offer of a general court-martial in open court which I made to Admiral Kimmel, with which you are familiar, were not referred to in the report released by the president on 28 August, 1945, because we did not wish the White House to feel constrained in making his reply to the offer of a general court-martial by any publicity concerning that offer," Forrestal wrote.

The secretary's reference was to the findings of army and navy Pearl Harbor investigating boards released by the White House. Those boards reported no cause for court-martial trials. They attributed some of the responsibility for the Pearl Harbor debacle to officers higher in command than Kimmel and Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, who was in charge of Hawaiian army forces.

Kimmel, since he was relieved of command shortly after the Japanese struck, has reportedly said he wanted trial. Shortly after the White House report, issued a statement saying "My conscience is clear."

JAP SURRENDER IN CHINA RUSHED

Ceremony Will Take Place Today In Military Academy In Nanking

NANKING, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Preparations were rushed tonight for the formal surrender of some 1,000,000 Japanese troops in China.

All indications were that the ceremony—a high point in the Chinese republic's stormy 33-year history—would take place tomorrow in the auditorium of China's "West Point," the central military academy in this pre-war capital.

Gen. Ho-Ying-Chin, delegated by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek to receive the surrender, arrived by plane in Nanking today and completely ignoring six Japanese officers waiting at the field, went to the academy.

Trimly dressed members of the Chinese Sixth army, flown into Nanking by American army planes, preceded and followed the general on a road lined with armed Japanese guards.

Thousands of Chinese school children waved flags and cheered the liberating troops.

Another arrival at Nanking was Brig. Gen. Robert B. McClure, who will represent the United States at the surrender ceremony. He took up residence in the building that was the American embassy during the eight-year Japanese occupation of the capital.

The spirits of Nanking's ill-fed, often mistreated people rose visibly as the influx of Chinese soldiers continued. Many seemed to realize for the first time that the long years of bombings and beatings were over, that Nanking was free at last.

Huge decorations were being completed on the main gate of the military academy and furniture taken from schools and from a building formerly occupied by the Chinese puppet government was being moved into the freshly painted auditorium.

American troops in the capital were given freedom of the city during daylight hours. Some of them mingled with Chinese troops in the shopping area.

LOSS OF U. S. WARSHIP TOLD

Destroyer Escort Underhill Sunk; 112 Crew Members Lost

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The destroyer escort Underhill, lost 112 men, including 10 of her 14 officers, when she was sunk by a pack of midget submarines off southern Luzon last July 24, the navy reported today. Her total complement was 238.

The loss of the vessel was announced Aug. 19 and additional details were disclosed today with the safe arrival of survivors in the United States.

Two of the six attacking Japanese subs were sunk in the battle, and the Underhill's casualties resulted from an explosion which followed the ramming of the second sub.

The submarine pack was stalking a convoy southbound from Okinawa.

The navy made public the story of the action as told by Lt. Joe H. Timberlake, 412 Greenbush St., Starkville, Miss.

Presence of the submarines was discovered on the Underhill's detection apparatus, and an attack was ordered. The Underhill dropped depth charges and observed evidence of a kill. A moment later the periscope of a second submarine was sighted.

The destroyer escort quickly altered course and rammed the submarine, but the impact, evidently set off the submarine's high explosives. The blast broke the destroyer escort in two.

"Observers watching from other ships in the convoy said it was the biggest explosion they ever saw," Lieutenant Timberlake, the Underhill's senior survivor, said. "They didn't think anyone had survived."

However, patrol craft rushed to the scene and picked up four officers and 122 crew members who had been on the ship's after section. All those forward were lost.

The rescue was effected in the midst of a running battle with four other midget subs, none of which was known to have been sunk, though all were driven away from the convoy.

The first class of 10 students in what was to become Columbia University met in 1923 in the vestry room of Trinity Church. The following year the charter for Kings College, which became Columbia, was granted.

Younger Set Inaugurates Season's Social Activities With A Brilliant Ball

D. B. S. Members Hostesses At Dance

First Important Special Event Of The Season Claims Younger Set Almost EnMasse

Declaration of peace, thrilling and comforting as it was to the whole civilized world, was the signal for Monroe's younger set to pop the cork of human exuberance at a brilliant ball on the Virginia Hotel roof with members of Delta Beta Sigma sorority, hostesses.

The dance was in the nature of a farewell to summer for young men and women departing for colleges and universities and also inaugurated the season's activities for D. B. S. members.

Mr. A. L. Harrington, re-elected sorority financial advisor and Mrs. Harrington, re-elected, sorority mother, were prominent figures on this occasion. They presented exquisite corsages to the out-going officers and to Miss Angelyn Swift the new president, they presented a corsage of orchids.

The Virginia roof was ablaze with the vivid colors of Autumn with sorority colors predominating. The beautiful evening gowns worn by the feminine dancers created additional color.

During the intermission, Miss Roberta Steele, the out-going president of D. B. S. introduced the new president, Miss Swift and other officers, namely the vice-president, Miss Mary Smith;

Current Literature Club Holds Meeting

Subjects Of Great Importance Feature First Club Program Of The Season

The Monroe Literary club held its first meeting of the new club year in the home of Mrs. Ben Parnell with Mrs. P. E. Massey, co-hostess.

Two excellent papers, "The San Francisco Conference" by Mrs. Sidney Karr and "United States Possessions," by Mrs. C. D. McAdams featured the afternoon's program.

Mrs. Karr said: "The United Nations Conference on International Organization met in San Francisco on the 25th day of April, 1945.

"At that time, the war in Europe had lasted for more than five years; the war in the Pacific for more than three, the war in China for almost eight. Casualties of a million men dead, wounded, captured and missing had been suffered by the United States alone. The total military casualties of all the nations in war was fourteen million, besides the wounded, captured and missing, and also besides the civilian dead, maimed and missing. "Something had to be done. The United Nations wanted to prevent a third recurrence of this great disaster. That was why this San Francisco Conference was called, which Mr. Cordell Hull, as secretary of state, has nurtured to fruition.

"In order to insure to all nations, the rights and benefits resulting from membership, members are to settle their international disputes by peaceful means and in such manner as not to endanger international peace and security. At the same time, members bind themselves to give the organization every assistance in any action it takes, and in accordance with the Charter, to refrain from giving assistance to any state against which the United Nations is taking preventive or enforcement action."

Mrs. W. Adams, speaking of the United States and her territories and possessions, said: "Throughout our nation today people are more concerned about our outlying territories than ever before. Especially it is true that in these outlying territories, the American commonwealth of states have met its major tests in the conflict which has confronted the entire world.

Delta Rho Delta Plans Lectures

Comprehensive Program Planned By Local Group For Enjoyment During Winter Season

Now that peace has been declared members of the local chapter of Delta Rho sorority feel that they are justified in planning a greater cultural program than ever before and to make membership in the sorority a decided educational and social asset to the individual.

Lecture meetings of Sigma Chapter of Delta Rho Delta are held on the second and fourth Mondays of each month at Hotel Francis, and each month's additional activities include a business meeting and social occasion, as well as participation in inter-chapter and state meetings, and the sponsorship of social service projects and civic activities which constitute important factors in the service program of Delta Rho Delta.

The highlight of the year's activities is the annual Interstate Initiation Convention, to be held this year over the week-end of November 17 and 18 at the Hotel Adelphi in Dallas, Tex., with Zeta Chapter of Dallas as convention hostess. During the activities of this convention program all pledges of all chapters of the sorority are honored at the initiation banquet and presented with their jeweled emblems in full-affiliation rites, state officers are appointed for activity of special merit during the year, and participation in social service work is discussed.

Mrs. D. C. Metcalf is the counselor for the local chapter, and Mrs. Lillie Mae Carroll is Archon and presiding officer.

Contracts have been completed by Delta Rho Delta National Sorority's extension forum for the annual series of 22 lectures and cultural features which comprise the yearly program of all chapters of the sorority, an organization of business and professional women of which Sigma Chapter of Monroe is now entering its second year of organization. Prominent local and southwestern speakers are presented semi-monthly in a program of diversified subject matter to include philosophy, travelogue, book dramatization, sociology, current event, play

Miss Louisa Hagel, Hardy O'Steen Wed

Double Ring Ceremony Is Performed At Lake Providence First Baptist Church

Simplicity characterized the wedding of Miss Louisa Hagel and Mr. Hardy O'Steen, on Sunday, Sept. 2, at 4 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Walsworth of Lake Providence. Rev. Paul Elledge of the First Baptist Church officiated at the double ring ceremony, in the presence of relatives and close friends. The wedding party faced the colonial mantel, with the fireplace and hearth banked with fern. Overhead was an arch entwined with ivy and clematis and centered with a large wedding bell. White floor baskets filled with white gladioli and Oregon fern flanked the arch. The couple knelt on a large white satin prayer pillow to receive the benediction.

Crystal candelabra on the wide mantel held tall taper placed on either side of a Georgian mirror, which reflected the wedding party.

Preceding the prenuptials numbers Miss Gwen Walsworth, wearing a white waffle pique model, lighted the candles.

Mrs. Herman Schwartz, pianist, wearing a black sheer with white embroidery trim, accompanied Miss Katherine Adams, who sang, "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because."

The traditional wedding marches were played for the procession and recessional and "I Love You Truly" was rendered during the ceremony.

The bride's attendant, her niece, Miss Ruth Hagel, wore a lovely floor length gown of white net, with bodice of all-over lace and bolero of matching lace, edged with net pleating. Her shoulder corsage was white asters and satin ribbon.

Mr. M. M. Walsworth served as best man in the absence of Herman Schwartz Jr., business associate of Mr. O'Steen, who was ill and unable to be present.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Jack Hagel, wore a beautiful wedding gown of white satin.

The sweetheart necklace was trimmed with a row of shirring, which matched the three hands that ended the form-fitting bodice and allowed the skirt to fall in graceful fullness. The veil was attached to a halo cap with orchids and tube roses.

The tradition of "something old and something new" was used with the veil belonging to a friend, in whose wedding Miss Hagel had been a bridesmaid; something old were the elbow length kid gloves brought from Germany by the bride's mother in 1912, and something new was the beautiful pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

The bride's table was overlaid with white lace cloth and centered with the three-tiered cake, embossed in bride's roses and surmounted with miniature bride and bridegroom.

Miss Lorraine Russell, Jena, wearing a black Romaine crepe model, presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Walsworth, assisting in the courtesies, wore a two-piece model with embroidered design on the jacket.

The bride's going away costume was a tulle of brown with accessories

League Of Women Voters Hear Talk On Subject Of Vocational Rehabilitation

At the regular meeting of the Monroe League of Women Voters last week in the Health Center, Mr. W. B. Swayze, assistant superintendent of vocational rehabilitation of the State Department of Education, was the guest speaker.

Mr. Swayze recounted the progress of the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation since 1920. It began when veterans of World War I were returning disabled and unable to pick up their old jobs. In 1920 Congress tried to pass a law to include civilians also in need of vocational rehabilitation.

but the legislature failed to pass it. In 1924, however, a bill was passed which included vocational rehabilitation for civilians as well as veterans. The states accepted this federal law and it has been operating since then. However, during the years up to 1940 the work of vocational rehabilitation was carried on a more or less part time basis.

In 1940 a separate department was set up to do nothing but vocational rehabilitation and money was appropriated for this work.

Previously, only permanently physically handicapped persons were eligible under the law, but now a new law much broader included mentally handicapped as well as physically handicapped. The program was now set up and administered by the state department of education in an endeavor to place all handicapped persons in full employment. Any person at least 16 years of age, physically or mentally handicapped, is eligible for assistance in rehabilitation.

The growth of the department is evidenced by the fact that there were only three employees in 1941 and now there are 25 carrying on the work throughout the state. There are 14 offices in areas where all five counties of the state are covered. The department is now employing 25 persons in the state who are working in various capacities. They are working closely with the vocational rehabilitation division of the state department of education to place all handicapped persons in full employment. Any person at least 16 years of age, physically or mentally handicapped, is eligible for assistance in rehabilitation.

ing. However, now a machinist should know all the trade and training for that would take years instead of weeks making it harder to prepare a handicapped person for placement.

Mr. Swayze concluded by stating that this vocational rehabilitation program is sound socially as well as financially by fitting persons for full employment and ability to earn and be independent and recross show that the average wages of the handicapped person has been raised from $250 to $1,200 per year after rehabilitation service.

After this interesting and instructive talk, members of the league entered into a discussion period. In addition to the vocational rehabilitation program it was hoped that a program of vocational guidance for normal school children could be inaugurated. With the help of parents guidance by a faculty member is desirable. Children need help in planning their course of study in order that they get the proper background for their life work.

The meeting was presided over by Miss Myrtle Rodgers, president of the Monroe League of Women Voters. Announcement of the organization meetings of the league in West Monroe and the day-time meeting with Mrs. Ben Breard was made.

Members and friends were urged to listen in to KNOE every other Tuesday night at 7:15 p. m. on timely subjects vital to every thinking citizen. Also the radio series "Beyond Victory" every Wednesday at 2:15 p. m. should be of interest to all.

The bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" was played by Miss Dorothy Nelson

League Of Women Voters Hear Talk On Subject Of Vocational Rehabilitation

At the regular meeting of the Monroe League of Women Voters last week in the Health Center, Mr. W. B. Swayze, assistant superintendent of vocational rehabilitation of the State Department of Education, was the guest speaker.

Mr. Swayze recounted the progress of the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation since 1920. It began when veterans of World War I were returning disabled and unable to pick up their old jobs. In 1920 Congress tried to pass a law to include civilians also in need of vocational rehabilitation but the legislators favoring this finally withdrew in order that the veteran's rehabilitation bill would pass. However, in 1921, another bill was passed which included vocational rehabilitation for civilians as well as veterans.

The states accepted this federal law and it has been operating since then. However, during the years up to 1940 the work of vocational rehabilitation was carried on a more or less part time basis.

In 1940 a separate department was set up to do nothing but vocational rehabilitation and money was appropriated for this work.

Previously, only permanently physically handicapped persons were eligible under the law, but now a new law much broader included mentally handicapped as well as physically handicapped. The program was now set up and administered by the state department of education in an endeavor to place all handicapped persons in full employment. Any person at least 16 years of age physically or mentally handicapped is eligible for assistance in rehabilitation.

The growth of the department is evidenced by the fact there were only three employed in 1941 and today there are 23 carrying on the work throughout the state. They are located in area offices in all key cities of the state, usually having offices with the state employment division, with whom they work in close harmony. They also work closely with the crippled children's clinic who do corrective work on all from six months to 21 years of age. If at 16 they desire employment they are referred to the department for advice and placement or training if necessary.

The department has no separate school for the rehabilitation program but takes each person as an individual case and sends them to business school, college or trade school, which ever is desired for the type of person being assisted.

Mr. Swayze continued by stating that this rehabilitation service is not charity service and a rich person just as eligible as a poor one. Vocational training and rehabilitation service is given regardless of income. The goal of the department is to place every handicapped person in full employment. A handicapped person can be just as good as employable as one who has all his faculties and sometimes a better employee. Employers employing handicapped persons find them very satisfactory.

Rehabilitation service covers many factors from the early location of the person in need, medical diagnosis and prognosis, locating suitable fields of work, physical therapy, training for employment—to the follow-up on employment.

Those to be helped must have a desire to work. Mr. Swayze stated. The department cannot force them to work, but if they have no skill they are trained for it and placed in a position. It is then up to the individual to make himself desirable.

During the past two or three years,

ing. However, now a machinist should know all the trade and training for that would take years instead of weeks making it harder to prepare a handicapped person for placement.

Mr. Swayze concluded by stating that this vocational rehabilitation program is sound socially as well as financially by fitting persons for full employment and ability to earn and be independent and records show that the average wages of the handicapped person has been raised from $250 to $1,200 per year after rehabilitation service.

Miss Voelker Will Wed Major Foote

Approaching Marriage Of Prominent Southerners Of Interest Throughout State

The interest of relatives and friends in this section of the South is centered in the following announcement: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sparrow Voelker, of Alexandria and Lake Providence, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Toni, to Maj. George Messenger Foote, United States Marine Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dade Foote, Sr., of Alexandria. The wedding will be solemnized in October.

Miss Voelker, native of East Carroll parish, is a blonde of distinctive personality and charm. She is a niece of Judge Frank Voelker, and a descendant of Louisiana bankers, historians and statesmen, being the great great granddaughter of General Edward Sparrow of East Carroll parish, a brilliant lawyer, jurist and senator. He was the senator who signed for the secession of Louisiana at the Confederate congress at Montgomery, Ala. Miss Voelker is the granddaughter of the late C. A. Voelker, owner of Arlington, one of the most picturesque suburban estates in the south, and a granddaughter of the late J. N. Hill, founder of the Lake Providence bank. She is a graduate of Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., and attended the Louisiana State University, where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma social sorority.

Major Foote received his A. B. degree from Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va., where he was a member of the Kappa Alpha social fraternity. When called into the service he was attending Tulane law school in New Orleans. Major Foote has served twenty-seven months in the Pacific from which he has recently returned. He is a veteran of the Bougainville, Guam and Iwo Jima campaigns, and wears four campaign stars.

At present Major Foote is located at Camp Pendleton, Oceanside, Calif., where he is attached to the school of tracked vehicles.

Bobashelas Book Club Presents Program With Mrs. A. D. Tisdale The Guest Of Honor

The social side of life was stressed by members of Bobashelas Book Club when they met at McGuire Golf Club for their first meeting of the season with Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, president of the Louisiana Federated Women's Clubs, the guest speaker.

Members of the Altrurian and La-Teutulia clubs were invited to hear Mrs. Tisdale's talk and to enjoy the social hour following the afternoon's program.

Beautiful flowers from the gardens of the hostesses Mrs. George Austin, Mrs. J. O. Miller, Mrs. Delma Carter and Mrs. Amos Hood, banked the lounge and the alcove where refreshments were served. Mrs. D. C. Harper presided over the punch bowl.

In the absence of Mrs. W. D. Clark, president of Bobashelas Book club, Mrs. Malcolm LeFevre presided. She introduced Mrs. Tisdale, who spoke on "World Peace" as follows:

Shortly before President Roosevelt died he wrote to an old friend, "I am sure Americans who have done so much in winning the war have no doubt that we can give victory the rich meaning of full employment in the U. S. and of assistance to other nations in their reconstruction—we must plan security and abundance together—this is essential to carry out the responsibilities that lie in plans made at Bretton Woods, Hot Springs and Dumbarton Oaks."

The United Nations Charter, made at San Francisco, is for the maintenance of peace and the development of justice under law. It consists of four primary bodies: The General Assembly, The Security Council, The Economic and Social Council, and The International Court of Justice. This Charter is a stronger document than expected and represents definite improvement over Dumbarton Oaks and the League of Nations. It is admitted by the result of compromise between widely divergent political, economic and social systems. No machinery alone can prevent war but the proposed machinery is adequate to achieve conditions conducive to peace.

The United States, with its leadership in political, democracy and its financial, industrial and military power is in a key position to take leadership in the United Nations Organization. If we do not it cannot succeed.

It must not be forgotten in this hour of triumph that the total losses in the European conflict alone of the Allies are 14,000,000 lives. Add to that, millions of civilians dead by starvation, massacre and bombing. Add again millions of soldiers and civilians killed in the Pacific area. Then add the one half million killed by two atomic bombs. It may seem almost inhuman to mention human and financial cost together but financial cost is also human cost. And the World War II has already cost the United States alone over 200 billion dollars. It is necessary to know these facts in order to think clearly about the price we are willing to pay to prevent another war.

Present were Mesdames Robert Coates, D. C. Harper, Malcolm LeFevre, Henry McClendon, Matt McClendon, J. V. Russell, R. R. Henry, R. G. Taylor, L. N. Waddell, J. V. Pipes, O. N. Resnick, J. G. Harlow, Julius Chandler, among others.

We Want to Come Home

To the man who's traveled and fought half way round the world, the last stop is right here—home!

Every landing operation, every beachhead, every weary march brings him that much closer. But there's still a long way to go.

And just how long it will take depends in no small measure upon how well we do our war job here at home.

Part of our job—a large part—is turning every spare dollar we have into Victory Bonds . . . seeing to it that no dollar is spent needlessly.

It's not too much to ask.

After all, those Bonds will bring back extra dollars in 10 years. They'll give you a cash reserve for emergencies.

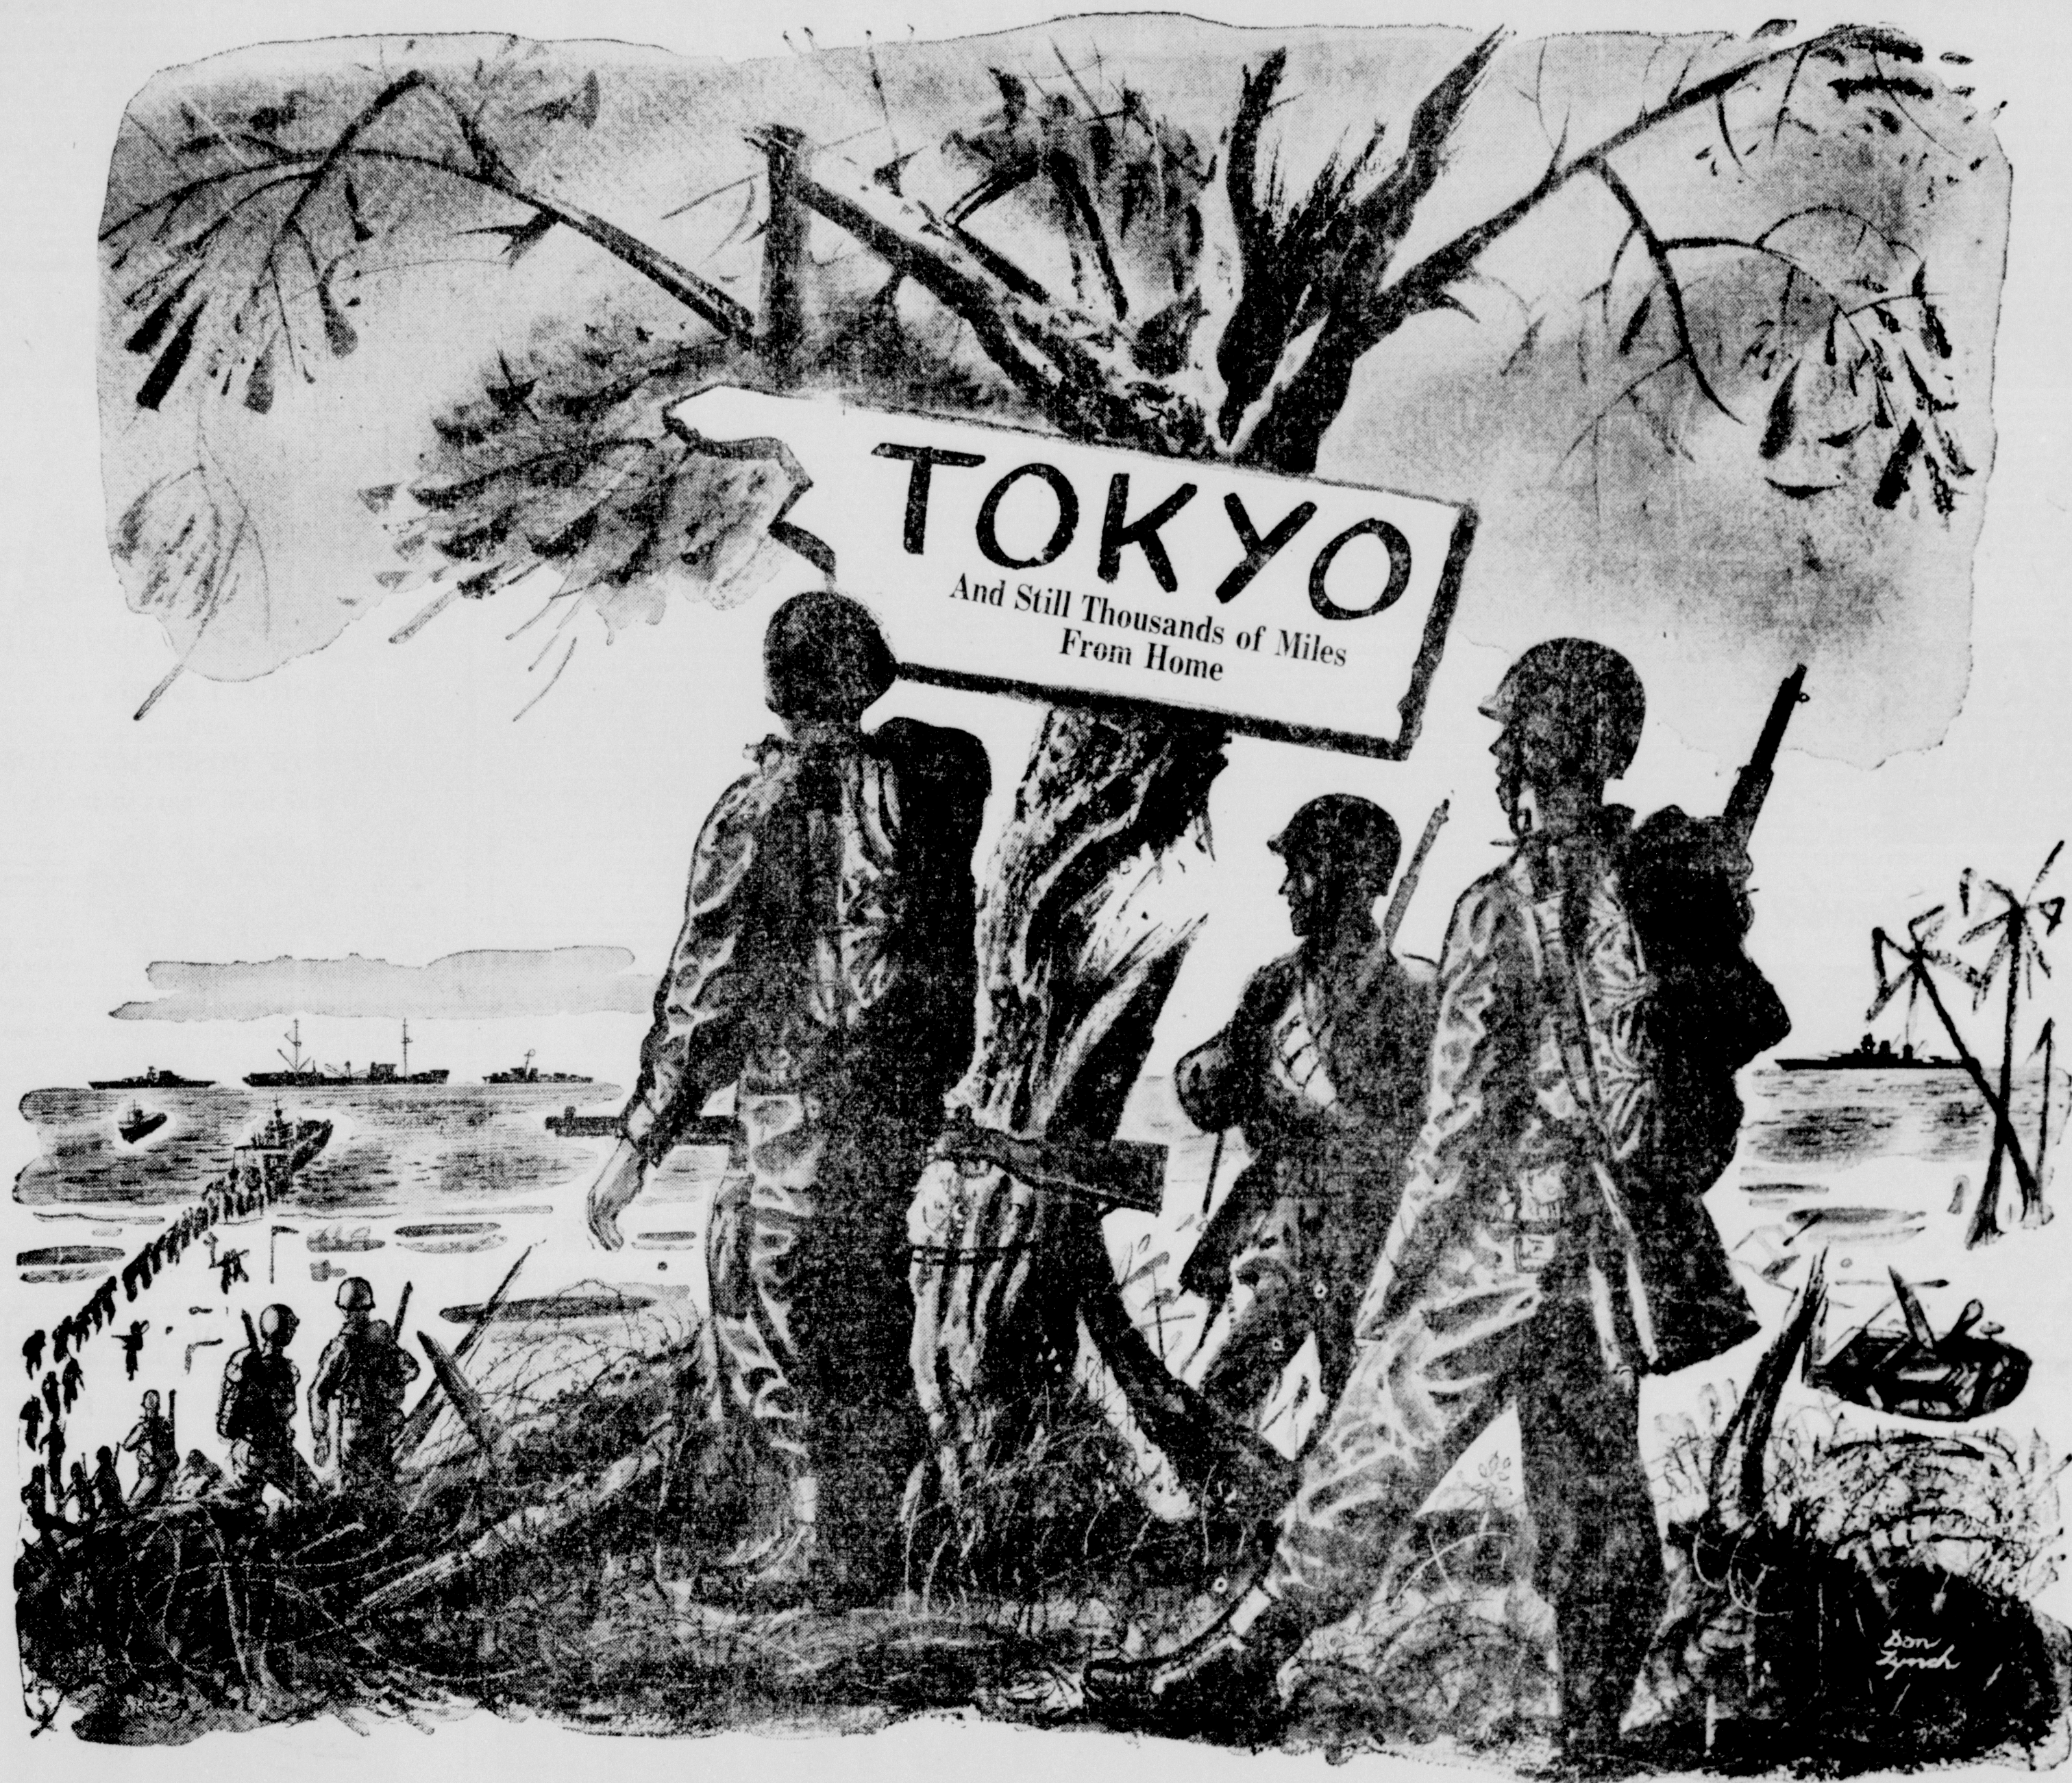

They'll help keep prices down where you can reach them now, and where he can reach them when he does get back. Those Bonds will go a long way toward creating the kind of peace we're all hoping for.

The best thing you can do for your fighting man—and yourself—is to turn your dollars into Victory Bonds—as many as you possibly can! And then hold onto them!

OUACHITA TO MEET HOMER GRID TEAM THURSDAY NIGHT

Lions Go To Homer For Second Game After Tie With Jonesboro-Hodge

The strong Homer High School Pelicans are next in the path of the Ouachita High School Lions, who last Friday night battled the Jonesboro-Hodge Tigers to a 6-6 tie at the Jonesboro-Hodge stadium.

Coach George Riser will take his O. P. H. S. forces to Homer for the contest next Thursday night.

Homer is playing this year under the direction of Coach Jimmy Karem, a former All-American back of Auburn, and Assistant Perry Angle, an ex-Burd High School of Shreveport and Northwestern Louisiana (Normal) athlete.

Little is known here this season concerning the personnel of the Pelicans except that they still have "Little Joe" LeSage, one of the state's outstanding backs of the last couple of seasons, in the backfield.

The presence of LeSage with Homer means trouble enough for the Lions. He weighs 180 pounds, ten pounds more than Bill Tolar, the Jonesboro star who proved plenty troublesome here Friday, and he will be just about all the Lions can handle—if they can handle him.

There were times when it looked like the Lions were a bit better than Jonesboro and that they were ready to click on toward victory, but a fumble at crucial moments or other adversities cost them the ball game. Lack of experience of some players hurt the O. P. H. S. chances. The green kids, appearing under floodlights on a football field for the first time, appeared frightened by the stadium-packed crowd and the experienced Jonesboro club.

If reserve strength can be built up to give these boys assistance the Lions may come up with some surprise wins this year.

In the line the defensive work of Center Billy Hargiss was very outstanding. If he continues to improve he should be a big help this season.

Guards Dan Willsensky and Carlton Potter, center, came in for their share of what glory the Lions earned, both of defense and in the blocking department. Graham Humble and C. J. Fontana looked like dependable underdogs and as soon as they gain a little more experience backed with determination they may find themselves listed as regulars.

Tackles Charles Johnson and C. L. Wink played especially good in the early part of the game but tired as the game progressed and did not come up with what was hoped for.

Their blocking was greatly handicapped. Harold Linzay and Clark Matney should develop into dependable tackles also.

The end play was more than had been expected. "Sonny" Webb, a newcomer to the team, played a very good game on defense and offense. J. Tripp's ankle injury seems O. K.

Trout Is Winning Pitcher As Detroit Ends Season Against Bombers

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP)—By hammering Hank Greenberg, the Detroit Tigers gave another demonstration of power today, winning the season's final engagement with the New York Yankees, 11-4, and did all but bury the Bronx Bombers final pennant hopes.

A crowd of 28,944 (paid), which extended the total attendance for the seven-game series to 143,546 paying customers and saw the league leaders take the long series, five games to two, for the season's record of 15 to 7.

In losing the weary fourth place Yankees fell to seven and a half games from the top.

Dizzy Trout, making his second start of the series, was the winning pitcher, although he needed assistance from Sub Overmire in the seventh. It was Trout's 15th victory against 13 defeats and his fourth in five starts against the Yankees.

AMVETS, COMMANDOS RESUME TITLE GAMES

The American Veterans of World War II and the Commandos meet in the final game of their Red Shield Senior Softball League's championship series tomorrow afternoon at 6 o'clock on the Barkdull Faulk Grammar School diamond with the title going to the team emerging victorious.

In five games so far each has won two victories and one game was called because of darkness with the score tied 1 and 1.

Manager Bill Harbour's Commandos won the series opener but dropped the second. They came back to win the third, and the fourth game ended in a tie. Friday evening Manager "Butch" Martin's Amvets triumphed to even the series and force it to the limit.

First team winning three games wins the crown.

Captain Jack Hesketh, of the Salvation Army, sponsor of Red Shield activities, last night announced the All-Star game between picked players from the Red Shield Junior League and the Recreation Junior League would meet Tuesday evening at Barkdull Faulk at 6 o'clock. The game was originally scheduled for last Thursday but was postponed because of rain.

Indians Step Up Practice Sessions For Henderson Tilt Sept. 27

The tempo on the practice field at Northeast Junior College will be stepped up this week as Coach James L. Malone hurries his charges into contact work in preparation for the Redskin football season opener against Henderson State Teachers College of Arkansas here September 27.

Work so far has been light, but plenty of contact work is in store this week with group and combination scrimmages on the bill of fare. Training started last Wednesday with 22 candidates on hand and only fundamental work has kept the Indians busy so far.

Coach Malone said the squad would be cut to about 25 players after next week.

"It is still too early to be making any predictions concerning our prospects," Malone declared last night. "Neither is there anything that can be said at this time about any particular outstanding individuals. Although there are several who show possibilities of developing into good football talent it remains to be seen how they will function under game conditions."

Six ex-service men are on the N. J. C. roster.

They are Walter E. Johnson, fullback, Greensburg, Pa.; Floyd Van, tackle, Monroeville; Mal Young, end, left-termin on the 1942 N. J. C. team, Greensburg, Pa.; Harry A. Izen, guard, Monroeville; and Bernie Van, brother of Floyd, a back, Monroeville.

Other squadmen are Clyde Patton, quarterback, Newport, Ark.; Gordon Grant, guard, Bastrop; Billy Sanford, halfback, Monroe; C. P. Moore, end, Bastrop; Doyle Heidman, halfback, Bastrop; "Sonny" Sers, end, Monroe; George Waters, center, Monroe; C. M. Tillman, end, Mangham; Alva Rutledge, guard, Monroe; Fred Higgins, both guard, Bastrop; Perry Bedgood, back, Monroe; Ben Handy, back, Monroe; Charles Jenkins, tackle, Parkin; Nick Zelnickoff, tackle, Harry G. Stringer, center, Columbia; Billy Hudson, guard, Oak Grove; Stanley Passman, quarterback, Monroe; Glen Gossett, fullback, Malvern, Ark.; and Jackie Hart, end, Jena.

PHILADELPHIA EAGLES FLY TO BUFFALO GAME

NEW YORK AGAIN BLANKS CUBS, 3-0

Feldman Bests Derringer In Duel As Bruins' League Lead Is Cut

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The New York Giants shut out the league leading Chicago Cubs for the second straight time today as Harry Feldman pitched an eight-hit 3-0 victory over Paul Derringer before 9,894 paid fans in Wrigley Field.

The defeat reduced the Cubs' lead over the second-place St. Louis Cardinals to three and a half games and left the season series between the Giants and Cubs in a tie at 11 victories apiece.

Derringer, who was defeated for the third straight time this season by the Giants, allowed only seven hits, but four came in the ninth to account for all the visitors' runs.

Mel Ott began the frame with a single, Dan Gaddella was safe on a bunt, and a choice and lumbering Ernie Lombardi beat out a surprise bunt. Roy Zimmerman then singled to drive in the first two runs. A double by Billy Jurges knocked in the last runner.

PICKER OF HIGH SCHOOL STARS RESIGNS HIS POST

ORLANDO, Fla., Sept. 8.—(AP)—John (Red) Davis, who has picked the all-Southern High School football teams for 26 years, said today he has stepped down from his post as chairman of the all-Southern Football Advisory board and will serve from now on in an advisory capacity.

Ash Wing, Orlando Morning Sentinel sports columnist, will take over the chairmanship, while Davis will devote his work to expanding the board's 12-state scouting contacts.

All southern scouts have meant about 2,500 college scholarships to high school boys in many cases the only chance of higher education.

A board of experts comprised of sports writers and coaches in Arkansas, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, Tennessee and Texas, select the six best players in their respective areas and the 72 boys who get the most votes win all-Southern training.

Wing, the new chairman, said he will make no changes in the board of 150 experts, many of whom have served with Davis for many years.

Recent practice sessions have been hindered by a rather large number of injuries. Coach Aillet said that 12 members of the squad he pointed out are on the ailing list with eye injuries.

"Ragged ball-handling" is a "major worry" at the present time, Coach Aillet said. Tech's offense, operating partial from the "T" formation, emphasizes accurate passing from quarterback to other backfield members.

The physical condition of the Tech team, which "is not as good as it should be," is another load on Aillet's mind.

Workouts in recent days have been highlighted by three falls back by Earl Dowies of Homer; Doug Mack of San Angelo, Tex.; and Jack Be-

SNEAD LEADS IN
DALLAS TOURNEYVirginian One Stroke Ahead
Of McSpaden At Three-Quarters Mark

DALLAS, Sept. 8.—(P)—Slammin' Sammy Snead, the drawing Virginian, rolled in with a three-under par 69 today to overtake and pass Harold (Jug) McSpaden in the battle for the Dallas Open Golf tournament, reaching the three-quarters mark with 208—one stroke ahead of the field.

McSpaden, who started today's play two under Snead, three-putted No. 18 to take a five and finish with an even par 72 that gave him a total of 209. Snead had come in an hour before.

The putts were dropping well for the Hot Springs, Va., veteran who has four tournament victories to his credit this year. He finished the first nine with a 34, scoring birdies on 2, 4, and 9, and showing five one-putt greens. The only hole he missed a regulation figure—No. 7—he missed a five-foot putt.

But there were few other times the Virginian stylist failed. At No. 6, he rammed down a 40-footer after blasting out of a trap. This followed a similar situation on No. 5 where he got out of a trap and barely missed scoring a deuce when the ball bounded out of the cup.

He birdied No. 12, missing an eagle only by inches when he putted from off the fringe. On No. 14 his tee shot rolled over the green and Snead putted 50 feet back, the ball rimming the cup and almost dropping in for a deuce.

On No. 18, he turned in a sensational iron shot, going under and over trees 175 yards to land at the edge of the green where he pitched to six feet of the hole and ran down a six-footer for his par.

Two strokes back of McSpaden, the dapper pro from Sanford, Me., seeking his first tournament championship this year, came shot Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., who shot a 69 to bring his score for 34 holes to 121, one better than Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J.

Byron Nelson of Toledo was one under par to retain his fifth place standing yesterday with a total of 213, one stroke below Johnny Bulla of Atlanta, Ga.

McSpaden made the turn with a one-over-par 37 but drew even with a birdie on No. 10 when he sent his second shot under trees 220 yards to the edge of the green, chipped within a foot of the hole and easily sank it. He got into a sand trap on No. 11 and took two coming out, so he went back one over par.

On No. 12 McSpaden rammed down a 15-footer for an eagle three and came in with pars on all except No. 18 where he lost his chance of tying Snead for the lead.

Snead was going well along the tournament trail but in June broke his arm playing soft ball with the cadets and was out of action for five weeks. He had won the Los Angeles, Pensacola, Gulfport and Jacksonville openers.

McSpaden, although he hasn't won a tournament this year, still is the second leading money-winner behind Nelson.

There were few sub-par rounds today as the touring pros continued to find the Dallas Country club course a tough one. No one broke 70 other than Snead and Hogan.

The final 18 holes of the $10,000 tournament, with $2,000 for first place, will be played tomorrow.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8.—(P)—Jesse Flores pitched the Philadelphia Athletics to a 9-0 triumph over the Chicago White Sox today giving the A's a four-to-three edge in a seven-game series with the Sox.

Flores, making his third straight shut-out effort against the Sox, gave up six hits and had little trouble after the first inning when a double play broke up a Chicago club drive.

The Athletics socked Buss Ross and Clay Touchstone for 12 bingles. Ross was nicked for three runs in the second inning and two in the fourth. He was relieved in the fifth.

MONROE MAN IS GRANTED HONOR

Lt. Louis Trousdale Recognized With U. S. Air Medal

The Air Medal was presented in a ceremony held at Congaree Air Base, Columbia, S. C., the past week when Lt. Louis Trousdale, of Monroe, son of the late Louis C. Trousdale, was the recipient of the honor for outstanding acts as marine fighter pilot. He got his wings and commission as second lieutenant, having been transferred to the marine corps as a fighter pilot, at Pensacola, and then went overseas, spending 14 months in the combat areas of the Pacific. While overseas he was promoted to the rank of first lieutenant.

Lieutenant Trousdale was a member of a Corsair squadron of a marine air wing which developed the Corsair fighter plane as a short-range bomber, perfecting the technique of low level bombing with the Corsair against enemy positions in the Pacific. Engaged in the same work with Lieutenant Trousdale was Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The Athenian has been back from the Pacific for several months and is currently stationed at the Congaree Air Base, near Columbia.

In addition of the Air Medal, Lieutenant Trousdale was presented the following citation signed by Chester W. Nimitz, fleet admiral, U. S. navy: "For meritorious acts while participating in aerial flights against the enemy as a division leader in a marine fighting squadron in the Marshall Islands. He scored a possible direct bomb hit on a coastal defense gun at Wotje Island on 25 August, 1944. Discovering several small boats in a lagoon at Wotje Island on 29 May, 1944, he led his division in a series of strafing attacks and, despite intense fire from the ground, succeeded in wrecking the boats and silencing the guns. His courage, superior airmanship, and devotion to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States naval service."

125,000 WORKERS IDLE IN DISPUTES

Survey Discloses Approximately 40 Separate Work Stoppages Across Nation

(By Associated Press)
Unrest along the country's labor front became more pronounced today as new disputes were added to an already long list and the number of idle climbed to around the 125,000 mark, the highest in many months.

The sharp rise in the number of workers off their jobs because of labor controversies has occurred in less than three weeks since Japan's surrender offer was made and after the ending of the no-strike pledge following formal surrender a week ago. In some cases the strike total was below the 100,000 mark most of the time.

As the strike trend headed upward, it was recalled some union officials in midsummer predicted that a wave of work stoppages would follow soon after the end of the war.

An Associated Press survey disclosed approximately 40 separate work stoppages across the country, affecting a variety of industries and businesses. The number of idle in the struck plants ranged from 25 employees of the Central Kentucky Natural Gas Company in Lexington, Ky., to 30,800 workers at the Ford Motor Company plants in Detroit and other cities.

Added to the 30,800 idle Ford company employees were some 13,000 other employees in Detroit motor companies, including the 4,500 at the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Company where a continuing strike resulted in the halting of production of passenger cars and trucks at the Ford plants. Officials said 22,000 workers in the Detroit area plants would be recalled to work Monday.

Other stoppages halted work in coal mines, steel and packing plants and other manufacturing concerns and deprived thousands of West Virginians of fuel gas. In Chicago 26 graduate nurses of 50 employed at the President Hospital were on strike to obtain wage increases and a 30-day vacation period instead of 14 days.

Some of the longer stoppages kept 15,000 jobs at the B. F. Goodrich Company's six rubber plants in Akron, Ohio, which a similar number were off the job but reported ready to return

Monday—at the Consolidated Steel Corporation in Beaumont, Tex. The Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation operations in Pittsburgh were halted and 10,000 idled by a sit-down strike of 99 railroad workers employed by a subsidiary.

In Charleston, W. Va., Gov. Clarence W. Meadows ordered state troopers to guard valves of domestic gas lines entering Charleston, Huntington and other West Virginia cities as between 800 and 1,500 employees of United Fuel Gas Company continued a walkout. A company official estimated that between 20,000 and 25,000 consumers were without fuel gas because of the walkout. The governor said the walkout, which started Thursday among the C. I. O.-affiliated union members of the company, was of a "wildcat nature." Oil Workers Union officials said it stemmed from a wage dispute and other terms of employment while a company spokesman said the wage dispute was before the War Labor Board.

THE TRUMAN HONEYMOON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—President Truman still is trying to honeymoon with Congress. Maybe it won't last. It didn't last with President Roosevelt. Mr. Roosevelt wound up taking sharp cracks at the lawmakers.

He tried to get some defeated. They cracked back at him. They nailed some of his pet projects to the barn door.

Mr. Truman has been very nice to his former colleagues in the Capitol since he stopped being a senator and moved into the White House.

He's gone up to the Hill to lunch with his old cronies. He hasn't taken a poke at anyone in Congress. And when he wants something, he strokes the congressional fur first. His message this week is a good example of patting the boys on the back.

In 16,000 words he pattered them and then dumped on them enough recommendations for new laws—some far-reaching—to keep them busy until Christmas.

In that message he didn't rush in and say: "Look, boys, here's what I want you to do. Take it or leave it."

Just listen to the part where he starts with a big salute and warm feelings for the senators and representatives:

"I regret that you have been compelled to cut short your recess period. . . . You have cut short a well-earned vacation. . . . I hope the American people realize as fully as I do that from the very first days of the emergency the Congress has most energetically and patriotically devoted its times, energies and capabilities to the immediate problem of war and to the long-range problems of peace."

After some more of the same, he whinnies across the things he thinks should be done by Christmas in the form of new laws.

But look at how he does it: On higher unemployment pay—"I urgently recommend that the Congress take immediate action to make good these deficiencies for the present emergency period of reconversion."

On continuing war-time controls—"I hope that the Congress will not delay the extension of this authority. And then he shoves in a suggestion which couldn't make any congressman

JUNGLE JIM

Registered U. S. Patent Office
THE GUERRILLAS TAKE CARE OF THE JAP CREW, AS JIM PUTS OUT THE FIRE THAT HAD DOWNED THE BOMBER.

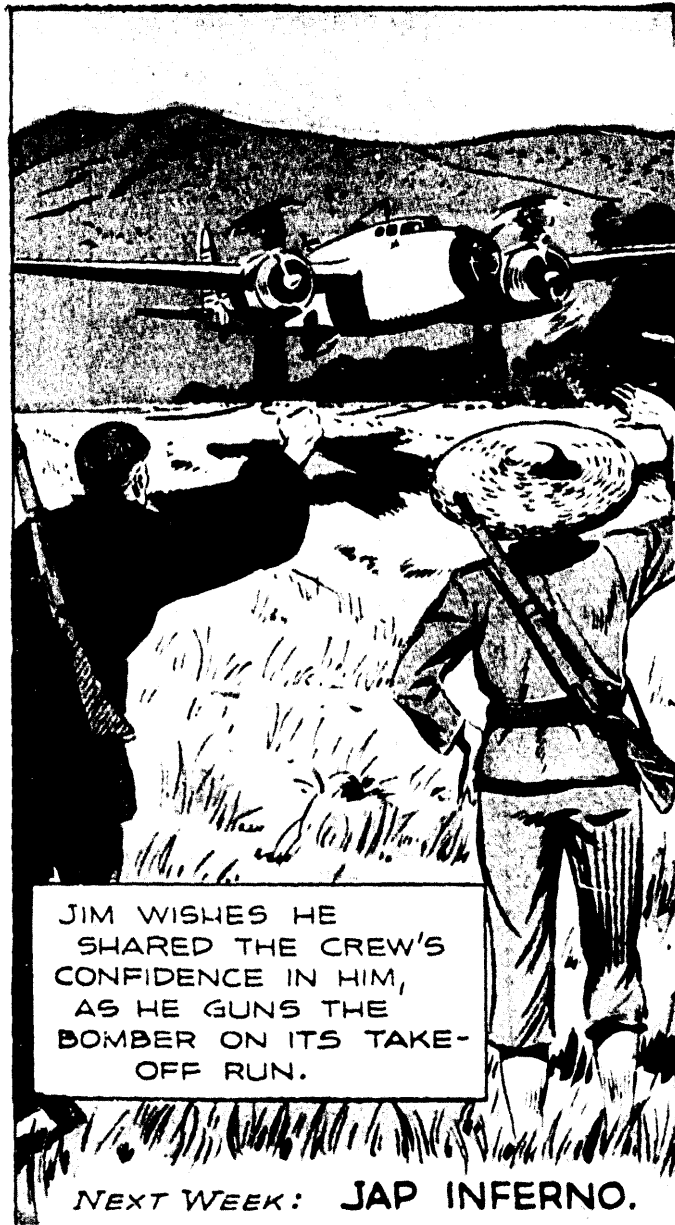

"GLAD THE AIR FORCE BRIEFED ME ON THE COMMONEST JAP PLANES LIKE ZEKES AND OSCARS AND BETTYS," JIM TELLS KOLU. "I WANT TO FLY THIS BETTY RIGHT BACK TO ITS JAP AIR BASE!"

9-9-45

JIM PICKS A CREW TO MAN THE BOMBER'S GUNS: "YOU'LL BE BOMBARDIER, KOLU. I'LL PILOT IT... IF I CAN WORK THESE JAPANESE-MARKED CONTROLS!"

Copyright 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

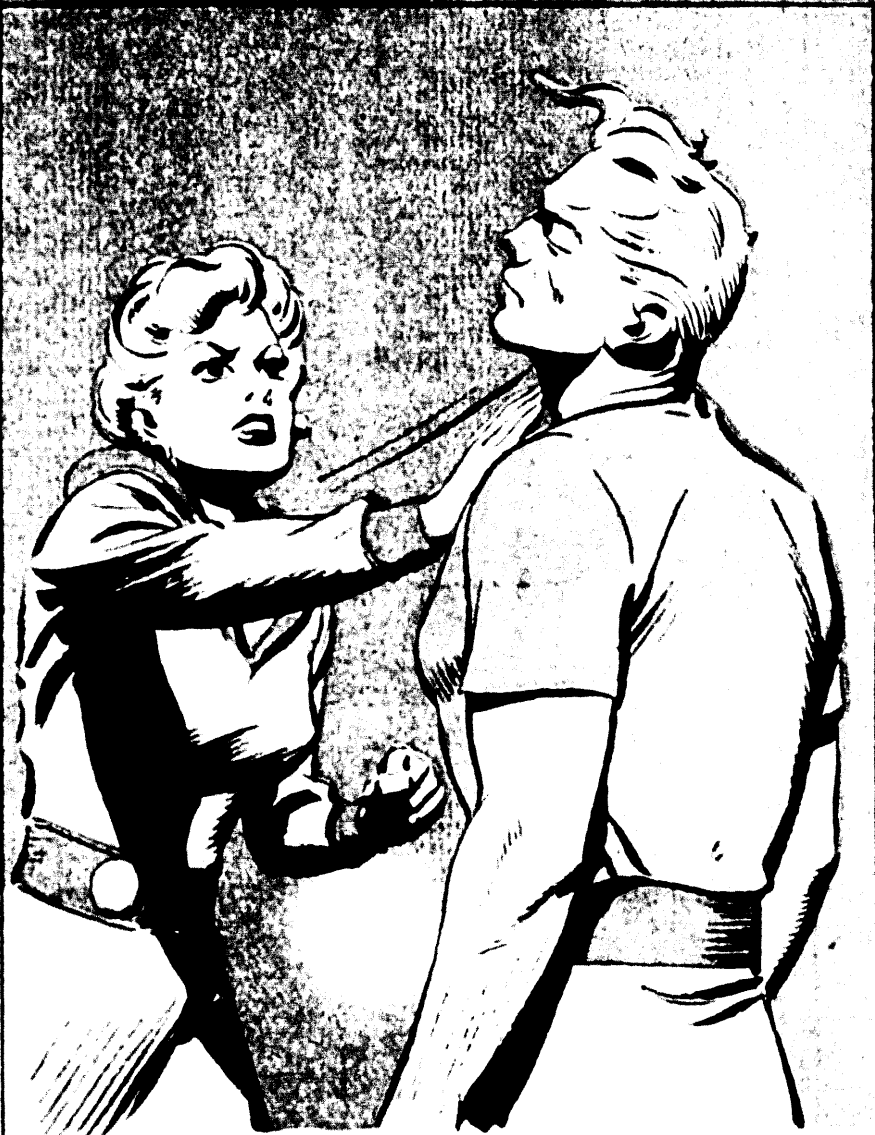

JIM WISHES HE SHARED THE CREW'S CONFIDENCE IN HIM, AS HE GUNS THE BOMBER ON ITS TAKE-OFF RUN.

NEXT WEEK: JAP INFERNO.

FLASH GORDON

LET'S CELEBRATE THE WEDDING AT ONCE!" ARIAL BUBBLES EAGERLY, BUT FLASH STALLS: "THAT'LL HAVE TO WAIT FOR MORE IMPORTANT BUSINESS. OZON, LET'S GET CONTROL OF RADUMA FIRST!"

WHEN KING OZON AGREES, THE TEMPER BREAKS THROUGH PRINCESS ARIAL'S PRETTY MASK: "YOU'LL BE SORRY FOR TREATING ME THIS WAY, FLASH, AFTER WE'RE MARRIED!"

FLASH IS TENSELY ALERT, AS THEY TAKE OVER CAPTIVE KING RADOM'S PALACE, BUT THE ONLY DANGER IS FROM A SKYMAN. ARIAL'S DISAPPOINTED SUITOR, CAPTAIN VOLOR, CATCHES HIM ALONE: "FOREIGNER, YOU'LL NEVER LIVE TO MARRY ARIAL!"

"I HOPE YOU'RE RIGHT," FLASH CHUCKLES--BUT HIS SWIFT ACTION SEEMS STRANGELY CONTRARY TO HIS PUZZLING WORDS...

THE STARTLED SKYMAN HAS TO ACCEPT FLASH'S WHISPERED ORDERS. TOGETHER THEY SLIP INTO RADUMA'S VISICASTING STATION: "CALLING DR ZARKOV-- RADUMA IS CAPTURED. GO AHEAD WITH PLAY C!"

Copyright 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc. World rights reserved.

FLASH IS OVERJOYED TO SEE ZARKOV'S CONFIDENT FACE IN SKYLAND'S VISICASTER: "OKAY, FLASH--WE'RE ON OUR WAY!"

NEXT WEEK: OUT OF A CLEAR SKY.

WHY-- WHY WE'D BE DELIGHTED TO HAVE ANNIE!

IF IF ONLY SHE CAN PUT UP WITH A CRAZY OLD PROFESSOR AND HIS WIFE--

GEE! I THINK THAT'D BE SWELL! AND I SURE DO WANT TO CATCH UP ON MY SCHOOL WORK!

WHY, IT WILL MAKE IT ALL POSSIBLE! NOW I CAN WRITE MY BOOK!

ARE-- ARE YOU GOIN' TO HAVE TO GO AWAY AGAIN SO SOON, DADDY?

I'M AFRAID SO, ANNIE-- I JUST GOT WORD THIS MORNING... BUT THIS TIME I'M MAKING SURE YOU'LL BE ALL RIGHT!
